RALPH MCGILL

'And God Help the New.'

"One sow, straying across the road," he said wistfully, "and two or three donkey carts, were all I saw of the old Ireland."

We were sitting at a table in an Irish house on the Strand, having walked there from the office of an Irish newspaper on Fleet Street. The writer with me was just back from a journey to his homeland.

"In the market towns today," he said, "you see the new cars parked thickly. Parking is becoming a problem. And even in the villages, save now and then in the more remote, you never see the smiling girls, bare-footed, with shawls about their pretty heads, and the horses are going from the farms—the lovely, strong intelligent horses."

He lifted his stein of Guinness, "wine of the Liffey," and said mournfully, "To the old Ireland. God rest her. She is no more. And God help the new."

Out of his talk came further substantiation of a fact, starkly before us, not well comprehended... the population of the world, not merely of the United States, is moving into urban centers. The rural areas everywhere are being changed by the tractor. The machine is here to stay.

Change

"I am not sure," he said, drinking deeply from his mug, "that all we have, the new shiny cars, the village girls with shoes, the slow disappearance of the horses, or the thatched roofs and the men who know thatching—I am not sure it is progress. But it is change. And change we cannot halt."

Rural Ireland was the strength of Eamon de Valera. Irish farmers kept him in office. But "Dev," half blind and aging, lost the recent election despite a mighty sentiment and a love for the man. "Sure, now," they were arguing in Ireland, "we will give 'Dev' just this one more victory."

But they didn't.

The rural votes which had always provided a majority were not there. The surplus farm population, made unnecessary by machines, isn't needed any more. But not too much of it is staying in Ireland. Those farmers who stay are more prosperous. They don't pay too much in taxation, which is the way of farmers everywhere.

The marriage rate in the Republic is probably the lowest in the world—or almost so. It is 5.3 to the thousand. In Wales and England, for example, it is 15.6 to the thousand. (In the United States it is roughly that of England. The rate has fallen from the high level of the war years.)

Population

Ireland's population, despite the low marriage level, goes up each year by about 28,000. But the number of resident citizens remains stationary. The population is shifting from west to east, from farm to town—but above and beyond all—that is shifting to old Dublin.

There is a music hall song about the "heavy, weary walk with a suitcase." It leads to the deck of a British-bound boat. In the Irish press there are want ads daily from hotels and mills in the Irish midlands and north where maids and industrial workers are wanted. In the London hotels most of the red-cheeked, amiable and friendly maids keep the halls sounding with the banter, "Your tye, sir, and a bad day out it is."

The farmer is the real problem—as he is in the United States. Here we have a "farm problem" of subsidized subsidies for the farmer. The farmer himself remains conservative so long as his income is good—though to be sure this trait is not confined to him. But once deprived of it, or threatened with low prices, the farmer, for all his tradition of conservatism, can become a radical fellow.

Irish agriculture could be prosperous enough to make the nation prosperous... but the farmer won't respond to prodding. England would buy all the surplus wheat, beef and pork Ireland could produce. But the farmers presently are content. And since the farmer is the conservative strength to balance the cities, the government, though unhappy about it, lets him be.

The revolutionary shift of population from land to city is worldwide. Politicians, legislatures, congresses, parliaments, please take notice.

4-3 Vote Clears Carr and Hensel

By W. H. LAWRENCE
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, May 26—Four Republican senators outvoted three Democrats today to dismiss serious charges of official misconduct against J. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense, and Francis P. Carr, staff director for the McCarthy investigating subcommittee.

U.S. Arrests 11 Puerto Nationalists

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today announced a sweeping roundup of 11 leaders of the Puerto Rican Nationalist party on charges of seditious conspiracy to overthrow the United States government.

It was not immediately disclosed whether the arrests were aimed at nipping a new outburst of terrorism and violence by Puerto Rican extremists, such as the bloody shooting affray in the House of Representatives last March 1.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said the party, founded in 1922, has a history "filled with violence."

Conviction on the seditious conspiracy charge would involve possible maximum sentences of six years in prison or $5,000 fine, or both.

Six of the suspects were seized in Chicago, four in New York City, and one in San Juan, the capital of Puerto Rico.

In addition, the Justice Department clamped down "detainers" on six other Nationalists, including four held in jail here on charges of shooting five Congress members in the House last March.

OTHER DETAINERS

The other detainees were placed against two Puerto Ricans now imprisoned in the federal correctional institution at Danbury, Conn.

Following Brownell's announcement here, U. S. Atty. J. Edward Lumbard said in New York a federal grand jury today returned indictments against the 17 arrested or detained Puerto Ricans.

Lumbard said the defendants allegedly planned to achieve their goal of independence for Puerto Rico by "the attempted assassination of officers of the United States and Puerto Rico, including the President of the United States and members of Congress."

The four arrested in New York were held in $25,000 bail each pending arraignment on June 1.

Oust Navarre? French Ponder

PARIS, May 26 (AP)—A French military source said tonight the government is having a hard time deciding whether to replace Gen. Henri Navarre as commander-in-chief in Indochina.

Navarre is on the spot because of the fall of Dien Bien Phu. His critics say he picked a place for defense of Laos too close to Red China, supplier of the Communist-led Vietminh, and not suitable for a topographic point for defense.

Democrats denounced the action as "a slick whitewash." Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) threatened to appeal the action to the floor of the Senate. He said he would raise the question also with the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which he is a member.

"LACK OF EVIDENCE"

While the Republicans asserted their motion was motivated by the lack of any evidence against Carr and Hensel, Democrats charged the real purpose of the move was to relieve Carr of a requirement that he testify under oath as requested by Army representatives.

A Democratic motion to call Carr as the first witness on the McCarthy side of the case was voted down, four to three, on straight party lines.

Carr had been accused by the Army of participating with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, in attempting, by improper means, to obtain special and preferential treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine.

CONSULTANT

Schine, a wealthy New Yorker, was an unpaid staff consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee before he was drafted.

McCarthy had charged that Hensel "masterminded" the Army charges against the McCarthy staff to stop the subcommittee from investigating him. The allegation by the Wisconsin Republican was that Hensel had acted improperly in organizing a private firm supplying shipping companies while he was a wartime Navy Department official.

McCarthy specifically refused to withdraw his charge against Hensel, and blamed an executive secrecy order issued by President Eisenhower for his inability to prove the case against Hensel at this time. Hensel's lawyer, Fred-

U.S. Seizes Ship at Canal In Search for Munitions

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—The State Department said tonight the French freighter Wyoming is being searched by U.S. customs inspectors at Cristobal, Atlantic entrance to the Panama Canal, to determine whether customs regulations have been violated—presumably by carrying arms not shown in the cargo list.

A statement issued by the department did not say specifically that arms were believed to be on board—possibly destined for Guatemala—but officials said that was the reason for the search.

The French Line office at Cristobal said the Wyoming carried a general cargo and that "No arms are aboard." The agent said the Wyoming is expected to pass through the canal tomorrow en route to San Salvador, El Salvador, these.

100 Killed and 201 Injured As Mystery Blast, Fire Turn Carrier Into a 'Floating Hell'

AMBULANCES LINE UP AS CARRIER REACHES PORT
Stand by To Receive 100 Dead, 200 Injured From Bennington

Navy's Boss Fails To Find Any Sabotage

By WILLIAM HOWARD
QUONSET POINT, R. I., May 26 (AP)—A blast-punctured fire ripped the innards of the mighty aircraft carrier Bennington at sea today in the Navy's second greatest peacetime disaster.

The Navy announced late last night that 91 bodies had been recovered from the ship and the search was continuing. Capt. William F. Raborn of Oklahoma City, Okla., said "at least 100 men perished but official Navy figures were based on the number of bodies recovered."

INJURY LIST

At least 201 officers and men were injured, many of them critically.

Survivors described the explosion-wracked carrier as a "floating hell."

Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas said after a preliminary inspection of the "Big Ben" that there was no indication of sabotage.

Stories of rescues and death on Carrier Bennington and list of dead are Pages 10, 16, 19.

tage. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.), in Washington had suggested the possibility of Communist sabotage.

Shortly after the ship with its grim cargo of dead and dying arrived in port here, the Senate and House armed services committee ordered investigations to determine what caused the explosion in the forward port side of the carrier.

Raborn said of the blast: "It's a mystery to me."

HINT CLUES

He told newsmen a preliminary investigation did not disclose the source of the blast. Early theories that a fuse magazine or a steam generator had blown up proved groundless.

"I regret to say I cannot give you an accurate reason for the explosion," Raborn said. "All leads have proved groundless. There was nothing explosive in the area where the explosion took place."

Naval officials were having difficulty identifying the victims. Many of the bodies were charred beyond recognition. Fingerprints was impossible in many cases.

Dentists were called to help identify the dead through dental charts. Most of the ship's personnel records were lost in the fire, making a muster of survivors difficult.

NAME BOARD

The Navy itself quickly organized a board of inquiry headed by Rear Adm. John M. (Peg Leg) Hoskins, Quonset Point commander. The board will open its inquiry tomorrow.

Hoskins said any ruling with respect to sabotage or cause of the blast would have to be made by his board.

Thomas said the cause of the explosion had not yet been determined and probably won't be for some time.

The Bennington, which fought

24 ASSIGNED TO CARRIER

2 Georgians Killed, 9 Others Found Safe

By JACK NELSON

A Savannah officer and a Dublin enlisted man, two of 24 Georgians known to have been assigned to the aircraft carrier Bennington, were killed in the explosion that rocked the ship Wednesday.

They were: Lt. Henry Drew Jr., 31, Savannah, and Lennie G. Woodum, Dublin.

Two Georgians were reported injured and in a fair condition. They are:

Rogers Anthony, TN, USN, son of Mrs. Mayole Anthony, 710 River Road, Albany.

Cecil K. Carrier, AKA, USN, husband of Etta Sue Carrier, Richland.

Nine other Georgians were reported to have escaped, one with minor injuries. No report on the other 11 had been received late Wednesday night.

Lt. Drew was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel E. Drew Sr., prominent Savannahans. Lieut. Drew is survived also by a wife and four children, who reside at Quonset, R. I.

Woodum was the son of Mrs. Jessie Smith Woodum, 109 Dasher St., Dublin.

As other Georgia families waited anxiously for news of their relatives, the following Georgians reported by telephone or wire that they had safely survived the blast:

Airman Charles C. Mann Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Mann of 1271 McPherson Ave., SE, Atlanta.

Chief Petty Officer J. F. Yashinski, 32, of 504 Trabert Ave., northwest.

Seaman Robert L. Stoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Stoner of 2295 Boulevard Granada, SW, Atlanta.

NYC Counting Ballots In Battle of the Proxies

By ED MORSE

ALBANY, N.Y., May 26 (AP)—The bitter war for control of the big New York Central Railroad was climaxed today as 2,000 stockholders jammed an armory for their annual meeting, marred by disorder and confusion.

Although someone presumably won the battle of the votes, no one knew for sure whether the victor was the present management, headed by President William White or the opposition, led by Texas-born financier Robert R. Young.

White said tabulation of the vote for the new board of directors would take at least until Tuesday when the election inspectors are due to make their first official report.

But Young claimed an overwhelming victory.

"We have deposited proxies for more than a majority of the outstanding stock, so that if every share is voted we will still be elected," Young asserted.

Young, however, has been making flat claims for victory for weeks, as has management.

A Central spokesman commented: "That's just a claim. What counts are the votes and the number of proxies checked by the election inspectors."

White said Young had no way of knowing how many votes are being counted "unless he is trying to usurp the functions of our inspectors, which it looks to some of us he is trying to do."

The fight for the $2,600,000,000 railroad, the world's second biggest, has raged since February. The Central board then rejected Young's demand for the board chairmanship and a directorship of Alleghany Corp., which Young heads as board chairman.

Ike Surrendering Powers, Adlai Says

Warns President Must Defend Army From M'Carthy 'Slander'

MERIDIAN, Miss., May 26 (U)—Adlai Stevenson asserted tonight that Republicans in Congress, caught between "apathy and McCarthy," are trying to usurp the powers of a President reluctant to defend his rights.

This invasion of the executive domain, the Democratic spokesman said, has brought on a "constitutional crisis." Among its symptoms are the Army-McCarthy hearings—"a distasteful spectacle of paralysis," Stevenson said.

Stevenson, former Illinois governor and the Democrats' nominee for president in 1952, made his first formal speech since his convalescence from an operation. The occasion was the climax of National Hillbilly Day. It was his third appearance in the South this year.

And as in a recent speech at Charlotte, N.C., he chided the Republicans on their role in the feud between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and the Army.

The Republicans, he said, "are caught between the contradiction, apathy and McCarthy."

"They act as confused as a blind dog in a meat house. And this is little to be wondered at, seeing that the Republican Party has as many wings as a boarding house chicken."

HEARING COST

The high cost of the Army-McCarthy hearings, Stevenson added, "is nothing compared to the cost of American prestige around the world, at a time when we have no prestige to spare."

"I think we all know that there is much more involved than a private in the Army."

Stevenson then said that the nation and "the world too" are becoming aware of the constitutional crisis "in the relation of the branches of our government" as reflected in the hearings.

"In the last 16 months," he said, "Republican freebooters have raked their President fore and aft with everything from the Bricker amendment (to curb his treaty power) to intimidation of our diplomats and slander of the Army."

Yet Eisenhower, Stevenson said, is "reluctant to man the barricades of his office and defend those rights and perform those duties that are his."

"It is precisely because the Republican leadership in the Congress, in the Republican National Committee, and in the White House has neglected 165 years of constitutional experience, that we are passing through our present constitutional crisis," he said.

Foreign policy, Stevenson said, is based on "the most fragile of all coalitions—the Republican Party. You cannot run this country to the satisfaction of every Republican leader."

"When I hear a pronouncement on foreign policy by Secretary of State Dulles and then hear it overtaken by a quite different proclamation by 'Secretary of State' Nixon, and this in turn contradicted by 'Secretary of State' Knowland, I can understand the advantages of dealing with one government instead of several," Stevenson said. He referred to Vice President Nixon and Senate majority leader Knowland of California.

Presbyterian Segregation Debate Seen

MONTREAT, N.C., May 26 (U)—Two controversial subjects—union and segregation—are expected to provoke loud debate when Southern Presbyterians meet at this quiet mountain retreat this week.

A report prepared by the permanent committee on cooperation and union, if adopted by the assembly, will be sent for approval to the 84 Presbyteries. The report calls for the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. (Northern), the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern) and the United Presbyterian Church in North America to be reorganized into the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

In the event of a union of the three, there would be a national Presbyterian Church of about 3½ million members.

House Group Approves Vets' Pension Increase

WASHINGTON, May 26 (U)—The House Veterans Committee today unanimously approved an increase of nearly 10 per cent in federal pension and compensation payments to ex-servicemen and their dependents.

The proposed increase, which faces an uncertain fate in Congress, would go to all but a few of the 3,676,872 veterans and dependents currently carried on Veterans' Administration rolls.

Detailed figures were not available. But it was estimated the proposal would cost the Treasury about $230,000,000 a year on top of the $2,500,000,000 already spent on such programs.

The benefit increases, designed to offset increases in living costs, were approved by the committee yesterday for most disabled veterans and their dependents.

EXTEND INCREASES

The congressmen followed up today by extending the increases to pensioned ex-servicemen and their dependents.

The final fate of the legislation is uncertain in view of the administration's current economy drive. The measure would have small chance of passage if House Republican leaders lined up against it.

The bill would not affect retired officers who are paid on a different basis by military services themselves.

The committee voted a flat 10 per cent increase in monthly compensation checks to veterans who suffered ailment or injury in line of duty. Widows and dependents of such veterans would get specific dollars-and-cents increases.

UP TO 12 PCT.

Needy veterans drawing monthly payments solely on the basis of having been in service would get varied dollars-and-cents increases ranging up to about 12 per cent. These increases also would go to dependents.

Pensioned veterans of World Wars I and II and Korea now get payments of $63, $75, or $129. These figures would be raised to $68, $80 and $135.

Childless widows of such veterans now drawing $48 monthly would get $54. Increases also were recommended for widows with children, and orphans.

Increases also were provided for veterans, and their dependents, of other conflicts back through the War Between the States.

Governors Tour Korean Lines

SEOUL, May 26 (U)—Three U.S. governors toured Korean truce lines and reconstruction projects in the shadow of Communist-held hills today, chatting with GIs and joking about the merits of their respective states.

Govs. Dan Thornton of Colorado, John Fine of Pennsylvania and Allan Shivers of Texas are visiting South Korea at the request of President Eisenhower.

The governors were especially interested in the U.S.-financed reconstruction of war-wrecked farms and villages. All along the line, they found families moving back to the land—even in the Chorwon Valley, a route used by invaders since the days of Genghis Khan.

House Votes Extra Atomic Defense Fund

WASHINGTON, May 26 (U)—The House today unanimously approved an urgent military construction bill providing $877,091,000 for fabulously accurate Nike missiles and other defenses against possible atomic bomb attack.

The roll-call vote of 345 to 0 sent the measure to the Senate where approval is expected.

The action came after Chairman Dewey Short (R-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee asserted that one bomber carrying a single H-bomb now can spew more destruction than all the bombs dropped by both sides in World War II.

Snakes Fleeing Flood Peril Iran Port City

TEHRAN, Iran, May 26 (U)—Thousands of deadly snakes driven into the port of Khorramshahr by flood waters yesterday spread terror among refugees crowding the city's outskirts.

Rumors swept the city that dozens of people were dead of snakebite. Iranian army authorities said the flood's only casualty so far was one soldier, drowned slipping off an embankment.

U.S. B36's To Fly Over Nicaragua

By CHARLES W. CORDRY

WASHINGTON, May 26 (U)—The Air Force announced today that three B36 bombers will make a "flying goodwill visit" tomorrow to Nicaragua, key buffer between the Panama Canal and Communist-infiltrated Guatemala.

While the Defense Department said the B36 flight was requested by the Nicaraguan government as part of the celebration of Nicaraguan Independence Day, it also amounted to a demonstration of U.S. military strength.

NONSTOP

The Air Force said the B36 bombers will fly nonstop from Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Texas. They will circle over Managua, Leon, Granada and Matagalpa, Nicaragua, before returning to the United States.

Meantime, diplomatic sources said the Communists may be using American-labeled arms to make it appear that the United States is plotting to overthrow the Guatemalan government.

U. S. MARKINGS

They said there are reports that some of the guns recently shipped from Poland to Guatemala bear U.S. markings. They presumably came from lend-lease stocks given Russia during World War II.

The Communist idea, the sources suggested, would be to plant the American-made weapons in the hands of foreign agents in Guatemala and charge them with plotting against Guatemala.

Ike Welcomes Emperor Of Ethiopia to Capital

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, May 26—President Eisenhower today welcomed Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie to the nation's capital.

Here on a three-day state visit, made at the invitation of the President, the bearded monarch was welcomed to the White House after being treated to the type of reception this city reserves for royalty and the heads of states.

Met at the airport by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the monarch traveled through flag-decked streets between lines of soldiers, to a civic reception and on to the White House where he was honored guest tonight at a state dinner tendered by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

At the airport, the Emperor of Ethiopia strode between lines of smartly dressed servicemen from the aircraft to the broad cement apron where an honor guard of Air Corps, Navy and Army men were drawn up for review.

The monarch will address a joint session of Congress here on Friday and depart for New York Saturday to begin a tour of the United States, Canada and Mexico that will last until July 14.

U.S. Blasts Communist Truce Plan

GENEVA, May 26 (U)—The United States warned today that Western acceptance of a new Communist cease-fire proposal would mean a dishonorable peace and eventual loss of all Indochina to the Reds.

U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith expressed American opposition to the armistice plan proposed by the Communist Vietnam which would partition Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Smith met for a long strategy session with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Ambassador to Switzerland Jean Chauvel, who was sitting in for French Minister Georges Bidault. Bidault was in Paris.

CONFERENCE RECESSED

The nine-nation Indochina Peace Conference was in recess for one day to allow careful study by East and West of the cease-fire blueprint submitted last night by the Vietnamese rebels. The talks will be resumed tomorrow.

Western diplomats said that the general feeling was that the conference now was getting down to the work of ending the war. The talks may be as long as those on Korea at Panmunjom, they said, and probably will be harder, but they have begun.

PRESS FOR TRUCE

Meanwhile, in Paris the government ordered Bidault to press for a quick cease-fire in Indochina, even if it means accepting some points of the "dishonorable" Communist peace plan.

At a meeting lasting nearly three hours, the cabinet expressed confidence that Bidault would be able to win a settlement essentially following the lines laid down by Premier Joseph Laniel.

20,000 Reds Besiege Town on Hanoi Route

HANOI, Indochina, May 26 (U)—The Vietminh rebels hurled 20,000 troops against the southern Red River delta town of Yen Phu today in an assault that threatened to turn the besieged outpost into a new Dien Bien Phu.

Two Communist divisions took part in the assault on the town, seven miles from Phu Ly, the key fortress of the southern delta area, 35 miles southeast of Hanoi.

Phu garrison and was parachuting in supplies—indicating a fight to the finish.

The outpost has been nearly encircled by the Vietminh divisions for three weeks. Today the Reds exploded their attack against the outpost under cover of heavy mortar and artillery barrages.

The High Command said that American-made B26 and Privateer bombers flew 170 sorties against the Reds in the Yen Phu area yesterday.

AID WOUNDED

The French command announced that 100 more wounded from the fallen fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northern Indochina had reached Hanoi. This brings the total of wounded evacuated to 800. The evacuation should end by tomorrow.

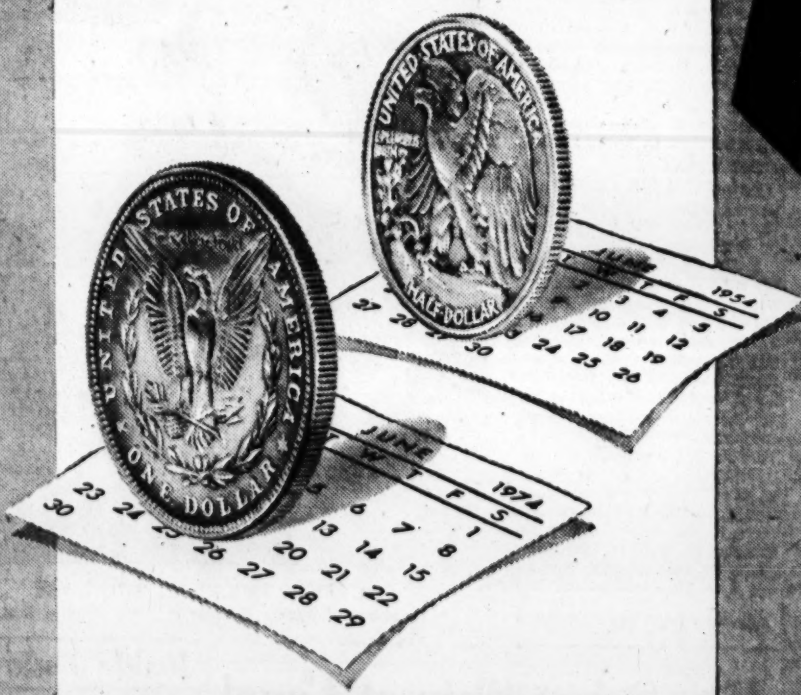

French bombers today also blasted elements of four rebel army divisions moving down Route 41 in the Black River valley from Dien Bien Phu toward the western gates of Hanoi.

South America Is Close to Georgia

Announcement that the shipment of arms sent to Honduras over the week end came from the Atlanta General Depot reminds Georgians of the importance of this facility that is one of the largest of its kind in the world. It reminds us, too, of the growing importance of Atlanta and Georgia as an arsenal for the nation's military might.

The depot has been quietly with us for a number of years. Few realize the immensity of its operations and the millions of tons of military supplies it handles annually. Strategically located in one of the country's biggest armed forces training areas, it supplies the sinews of defense for millions of America's population and the weapons of war for their combat men.

The fact that the shipment went out of Atlanta reminds us, too, that south of us is a fast-growing area that affects the South's security and her economy as well. Still comparatively undeveloped economically, South and Central America have vast untapped wealth. South America's population is growing at such a rate that it is estimated 500,000,000 will live on the continent by the end of this century. Growing commerce out of Southern ports will continue to increase.

We must think about this sister continent to the south. It must be bound to us culturally, economically and in common defense. It is and will continue to be a target for Communist infiltration and trouble-making.

Florida Voters Choose Fine Man for Governor

Leroy Collins, Tallahassee attorney and state senator, scored a smashing victory in the Florida state gubernatorial primary run-off.

Thereby Florida is assured an honest and able administration during the next two years. The nomination, tantamount to election, is to fill the remaining two years of the term of the late Dan McCarty.

Collins was victor by more than 100,000 votes over Acting Gov. Charles E. Johns, whose ruthlessly political deeds had shocked the state. The nominee stated he is "humble and determined to make Florida the kind of governor and do the sort of job our citizens deserve." He is pledged to carry out the program begun by his close friend, the late Governor McCarty.

Collins and his charming wife are from old and cultured Florida families. They will bring to the office and the governor's mansion a charm and grace which, along with intelligence, will be a very positive asset to the state.

Other Southern states almost certainly must have looked on with wistful eyes as Florida nominated her next governor. The race issue was not mentioned. No candidate used it in an effort to get votes or prejudice others.

Congratulations to Florida on that, too. But, most of all, congratulations to our sister state to the south on electing a really fine man to the highest office she has to give.

Bennington Disaster Is National Tragedy

The fire aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington is a tragedy that moves the nation to deep sorrow.

The disaster goes on the record as the second worst in the peacetime history of the United States Navy. Yet the more than 100 fine young Americans killed and the more than 200 injured are casualties in the line of national defense as surely as if they had been victims of an enemy attack during battle action.

Fire aboard ship is indeed the greatest enemy of the seafaring man. When the vessel is a warship laden with high octane gasoline and munitions the hazard is at its highest.

In the event of such a disaster to a unit of the fleet Americans can only express sympathy to the families of the victims and gratitude to the crew members who risked their lives to rescue their shipmates and save the carrier.

She's a True Daughter Of the Maid of Orleans

Out of the tragedy of Dien Bien Phu has come a new heroine for the world and the French.

She is Lt. Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, a nurse who was trapped in the fortress and tended the wounded through the horrors of the siege and capitulation. Her Communist captors returned her to French territory, either through a rarely shown sense of gallantry, or for the propaganda effect the act might have.

Lt. De Galard-Terraube's ordeal was stark and terrible and was dramatized by everyone except the lieutenant herself.

"I only did my duty," she said, and announced that she hoped to stay in Indochina, for her place was near the front.

This modern Frenchwoman is as modest as Joan of Arc, and in the great tradition of Florence Nightingale who founded modern nursing on the battlefields of Crimea. She exemplifies the highest virtues of her profession, whose members, usually unsung, bring comfort and solace in disaster to the afflicted everywhere.

But the President Must Have Some Help

En route South, Roy Roberts of the Kansas City Star, one of the better known and most respected publishers in America, paused in our town long enough for an interview.

He said as a Republican and one of the original Eisenhower men he feared that with the disapproval of the McCarthy business might well elect a Democratic House and, if the hearings continue, a Senate as well. Midwesterners, he said, including many who formerly believed in McCarthy, are "thoroughly disgusted."

We hope that is right and assume it is. Mr. Roberts has a faculty for being right.

He said, too, that "we are fortunate to have a man of President Eisenhower's ability and experience in office in the light of serious international problems."

Good Americans will agree completely with that statement, too.

The trouble is there are not in office enough Republican congressmen and senators who have ability and experience enough to assist the President in the light of the increasingly serious international problems—the latest of which is so near the Panama Canal.

Washington Remembers That History Repeats

The Senate has passed and the House will be asked to approve a measure providing for the construction of 20 new tankers for the United States Merchant Marine.

The ships will be fast, go fast it is hoped that they will be able to outrun submarines in case of war, and help keep American industry oiled and greased.

In World War II tankers were one of the first targets of Axis submarines and the toll in ships and lives was heavy along the water routes between this country and overseas producing areas.

Oil is one of the great necessities of modern industry, and while we produce plenty of it, still we need to import more. Successful strikes against tankers crippled our efforts last war, and the government apparently doesn't want to be hampered in the same way in case of another conflict.

The shape of the next war is hard to foretell, but undersea ships will play a vital part. Lack of preparedness in anti-submarine warfare by the United States and Allies very nearly meant defeat in World Wars I and II. There is some consolation in seeing that the lessons of the last great war have not been forgotten and that Washington still remembers the burning ships and oil covered beaches of the South Atlantic states of 12 long years ago.

We Help Others, But Who Wants To Help Us?

The rest of the world has a hard time understanding Americans. Sometimes it is easy to see why.

In Seoul, Korea, they have dedicated a new cotton mill. It has 30,000 spindles and replaces a mill destroyed by war.

Money to rebuild the mill came from United Nations rehabilitation funds. It may be assumed safely that a great portion of this money was American.

The mill now is competing with the American textile industry which has been having pretty hard sledding. Its product will further reduce the export market for American textiles.

Here we have the peculiar situation of a people shelling out cash to aid a project which can do some damage to their own economy. The same procedure has been followed, not only in Korea, but in other countries that have been wrecked by war.

A land that sends money and technicians all over the world to strengthen the competition is something new in mortal history. No wonder foreigners have such a struggle figuring our motives. At times it is debatable if we understand them ourselves.

'Let Schools Stay as They Are With Parents And Students Given Their Freedom of Choice'

Alto—If Negroes want to attend their own schools as the Negro father says they do, it seems to me the segregation issue is simple.

All we have to do is to continue schools as they are and let the students or parents have free choice, within county or city systems, as to where they want to go to school or have their children sent to school. I cannot see how it would be against the law for superintendents of schools or boards of trustees to have colored teachers teach at certain schools and white teachers at others.

If, of course, there were cases where colored students wanted to go to white schools and vice versa they would have to be allowed to do so with no intimidation, coercion or violence. Counties with very small Negro populations could get the benefit of savings in state and federal funds by having just one school facility. This would induce counties to do away with segregation gradually.

The Supreme Court has spoken and it seems to me we are going to have to obey the law.

ERNEST HINSON.

Says 'Negro Father' Didn't Speak for Race

Tuskegee, Ala. — In answer to the letter from "A Negro Father" in the Pulse of the Public, May 20, 1954, may I state, just as Gov. Tammidge said he received 100 telegrams with only 5 opposed to separate schools, so the writer of the letter referred to herein quite possibly is only one of five out of 1,000 Negroes who may be opposed to integration of the races in public schools. I can hardly think this gentleman, in expressing himself so adamantly, speaks for the Negro race as he so strongly contends.

MONICA M. JOHNSON.

Golden Rule Called Solution to Problems

Atlanta — Let us not err. Rather let us be like George Washington, who when a colored man tipped his hat to him, tipped his hat also. He said: "I will not let anyone be nicer to me than I will be to him."

God's good will kingdom toward all men must be established. There must be a cooperative plan for the good of all. Man must do unto man as he would have man do unto him.

MRS. J. H. TAIT.

Do Equal Facilities Guarantee Equality?

Thomasville — It appears to me that if two school buildings are built, having teachers with certain qualifications, the same books, etc., that it would have equality. I am not at all surprised at the segregation decision. Who said the decision would be 4-4?

C. L. TONEY.

Agrees With Martin On Humane Society

Atlanta — Harold Martin's column was very timely and I hope you will write others in behalf of the Humane Society. If the Community Chest directors drop that very worthy institution, it will be the most stupid and costly mistake they ever made.

Thomas L. Stokes

Special Interests Know No Party

WASHINGTON—There are signs that this is an election year. Sure enough! Signs, too, that the Republican high command is worried that the party may lose control of Congress. These signs may be detected in the campaign talk we are hearing.

The prize signs in these early stages is unquestionably that recent speech by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield blaming the Democrats for the Indochina war! This would indicate a fear—sired by a guilty conscience—among Republicans that their successful use of the Korean war against the Democrats in the 1952 presidential campaign might boomerang against them in an Indochinese boogymen.

Now comes Bernard M. Shanley, counsel to the President, to blame the Democrats for blocking the Eisenhower program in Congress! Could he have got his signals crossed? For the impression that we who follow events here closely get from what we see, as well as from President Eisenhower, is that it is the Republican party in Congress that is at fault in the slow progress of the Eisenhower program.

At least, the President has indicated as much repeatedly and has warned his party leadership by saying the party doesn't deserve to win unless it has enacted a good program. The timing of Mr. Shanley's outburst before the wine and spirits wholesalers' convention here seemed unfortunate. It came right on the heels of the President's public announcement abandonment of the bulk of his foreign-trade legislative program, once so widely advertised. He had to drop it because his own party in Congress would not take it.

So the President has given up for this Congress the proposed three-year extension of the reciprocal trade law, with additional authority to reduce tariffs in negotiations with our allies. Instead, he will take a flat one-year extension, with virtually no further cuts possible. He'll get that because of Democratic votes, as he got a similar one-year, stop-gap extension last year. The White House counsel skipped over the way Republicans in the House killed off President Eisenhower's proposals for public housing this session, just as they did a year ago. That probably will be remedied to some extent in the Senate with Democratic help, as happened last year, to provide at least a skeleton public-housing program. Nor did Mr. Shanley refer to the narrow escape the President had in the Senate early in this session in the case of the Bricker amendment. Again the President was saved by Democratic votes, as on numerous other issues.

There are some measures about which neither Republicans nor Democrats will boast publicly, nor will they carp at the other party about them. The less said the better. Reference is to special-interest legislation. Typical was the bill to hand over offshore oil lands to the states. This became the first major legislative accomplishment of the Eisenhower administration. Both parties contributed votes to that grab; for oil, like other similar interests, observes no party lines.

I know many people will cut their subscription and give the difference to the society; others will cut it and keep the money in the pocket, and others will refuse to contribute anything to the Community Chest Fund.

The Secretary's Indispensable

Deep apologies to the secretaries of the nation for failing to note that yesterday was National Secretaries' Day. The secretary is the one who knows all the words that can be written two ways and how to explain that the boss is out of the office so convincingly that she comes to believe it herself. Since everyone appreciates the "Girls Friday," perhaps they won't mind one story at their expense.

The anecdote that's been floating around town is that of the two executives with adjoining offices who were arguing about which had the dumbest secretary. "I'll show you what I mean," one of them said. Taking a nickel from his pocket, he gave it to his secretary and told her, "Go downtown and buy me a Cadillac." She took the nickel and left the office. "Can you beat it?" asked the boss, shaking his head sadly.

"I think I can," said his executive suitemate. "Come with me." The two walked in to the second man's office. The second man said, addressing his secretary, "Go down to the club and see if I'm there." Obediently, she got up and went.

On the way she came upon the first secretary standing at a corner, contemplating the nickel. "You know," she said as her friend approached, "I've got the dumbest boss that ever lived. Here he has given me a nickel and sent me to buy a Cadillac and he didn't even say what model or color." "You think that's stupid!" said the second secretary. "Why, my boss is sending me to the club to find out if he is there and all the time he could have reached for the phone and found out for himself." All kidding aside, the secretary is indispensable. The question is: Does she know how to spell it?

ALSO SELECTED Short Subjects: Lawrence H. Jordan of Shady Dale RFD claims the hawk-killing championship of Jasper County, if not of Georgia. Lawrence has laid low 39 of the broad-wing-span predators since Christmas. . . . The Rev. E. Pickens Jr., pastor of the United Congregational Christian Church at LaGrange, was a member of the famed "Flying Tigers" and is credited with six-and-a-half enemy planes. . . . One of the heat-est roadside parks I've seen is that along Georgia Highway 5, close to Jasper. The State Highway Department has opened similar parks near Ludowici and Claxton, sponsored by the Long County Garden Club and the Claxton Rotary respectively.

HIGHLINE: The governor's race has not reached the "exciting" stage yet, but it's at least becoming a favorite topic amongst weekenders at the county site. Now it's mostly, "Who's gonna stay in?"—Dan Eden in The Jones County News.

Florida Is Best When Half Empty

Off-season Florida is a joy and a pleasure. The land of the clip joint is relaxed in the summer sun. Gone for a while is the outstretched palm, red and infected by too much money. The 15 per cent tip is acceptable again, at least through Christmas, and the welcome sign is out.

In some extreme cases bartenders have put up their false-bottomed jiggers for the summer and are serving the trade an honest measure.

There are many facets to Florida, but the best known is the Florida of the tourist traps. Along each coast millions have been invested with the object of separating the traveler and his money. There are places to stay, places to eat, and things to look at and things to do that you can't do or see back home. The appeal of these attractions is as varied as the visitors. The attractions range from gambling and all sorts of specialized sin, to synthetic shrines for those with a religious bent.

In the winter these come-ons are quite high priced, for that's when the profit must be made. Come summer, the proprietors are happy to meet the overhead, and prices come down.

Florida is a fair land where nature's lilies have been gilded beyond recognition, as in the case of the great boiling springs. Where nature has failed to provide lilies, man has built them. Golf clubs, disguised as mosques tower over the pines. Cape Cod cottages march hand in hand with Mediterranean villas, and nearly everywhere is some of the most thoughtless architecture that ever has masqueraded as modern.

The summer tourist sees almost everything the winter visitor does, and much more easily. Prices are low and the traffic jams are gone. Of course, the horses are gone too, but the flamingoes stay on at Hialeah, and you can always see a horse at home.

Florida is mostly shoreline. If it's not the Atlantic or Gulf, it's a lake or a river. The natives are mostly amphibious, and this time of year wear costumes equally suited to water or casual living on land. Whoever called the human form divine, never visited Florida when the weather was hot.

Summer in Florida is one bright vacay sign after another. They come in every shade of neon. From the most vivid green to the palest of blues and pinks. The places that gouge you in winter are rare bargains now, and while the dining room may be closed, the man behind the desk welcomes you heartily instead of frowning.

Low summer rates is the motto. This sign swings from hotels, motels, fishing boats, and even in the windows of some liquor stores.

Florida in the early summer is pretty nice. Afternoon showers freshen the scene, and the colors that people pay through the nose to see in the winter are twice as bright. The air is soft and warm, reliably warm. The alligators are just as ugly as they are in season, the rare birds just as rare, and the fishing is generally better.

The real clip joints are closed, for the suckers with money have followed the season somewhere else, and the little man with just a little to spend gets a fair shake. Gone too are the headwaiters, those frozen faced gentlemen who won't thaw for less than $10, and democracy reigns in the restaurants.

All travel is good, and the best time to tour is when the season is slack and the rates are low.

Paul Bore His Ills With Steadfastness

There is a story of a woman who had a bent back. Much worse, she let it get into her mind and the Bible says she had "a spirit of infirmity" (Luke 13:10-13). But may it be said in her favor, she did something to help herself. Many people under the weight of some infirmity have given up and quit. Though for 18 years she had gone about "bowed together," she kept on going. That is good.

One thing she did was to go to church. She might have turned her bitterness against God. Some do that. But it never helps to curse the mechanic when our car breaks down. He is the one who can help. And when some circumstance of life weighs heavily upon us, often God is the only one who can help. The Bible says, "She could in no wise lift up herself."

It is a marvelous time in our lives when we realize we are not sufficient unto ourselves and look to a higher power. She went to church because she needed the help she could find there.

That day Jesus saw her. Immediately His heart went out to her in compassion. Christ always helps when we give Him a chance. Notice carefully what He did. He said, "Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity." That doesn't mean He straightened her back. He did later on, but that was not necessary. He did something better than straightening her back—He gave her the inner strength to live happily and gloriously in spite of her bent back.

So often do we recall St. Paul's experience. He had a handicap that troubled him greatly. He prayed earnestly that this "thorn in the flesh" be removed. God could have removed it but God didn't. Instead, he gave him the "grace to bear it." And St. Paul said of it: "Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me" (2 Cor. 12:9). His weakness became his pathway to the strength of Christ in his life.

We all face circumstances in life that make it hard for us. But in the facing up to those circumstances, we gain power. The tragedy is when we allow those circumstances to get inside of us and break our spirits.

General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, when informed that he was going blind, said, "I have done what I could for God and people with two eyes. Now I will do what I can for God and people without eyes." That is the courage that God gives to those who trust Him.

David Lawrence

Private Talks Make Real Geneva Story

GENEVA—What is the true significance of this conference? There is something here that vitally concerns every man, woman and child in America and in every other country as well.

What the various delegations have said, of course, about the Indochina and Korean problems in their public speeches or in the so-called restricted sessions, where 40 persons are present, are merely the outward manifestations of various national policies. What has been said with just three or four persons present as the broader issues in the world are discussed—can be said to be the real story here.

It is interesting how often the possibility of a third world war comes into the conversations among the top men. It is not surprising because lurking in the background is the question not of Korea or Indochina but the big war that can come if there are more clashes between the East and West. In all this, the sparring that goes on in public plays a big part. The Soviets see divergencies between Britain and France, and they tend to exaggerate them in their minds. This has to be overcome, so Anthony Eden, the British foreign minister, tells the Red Chinese foreign minister not to count too much on transient differences because, in the final showdown, all the Allies will stand together.

Out of it all comes a single important fact. It is costly for the Soviets to maintain a supply line of a military nature into Korea and Indochina and it is costly, too, to put so many billions of rubels into armament preparations when the demand inside the Soviet Union is for a better standard of living. So the pressures for peace are at the moment strong in Moscow, but nevertheless the pressure to push Communist imperialism as a dominant ideology in the world is unabated. The dangers were accurately described this very week in Paris by Field Marshal Montgomery, when he said in a speech:

"A third world war could start by miscalculation or mistake. A situation might arise somewhere in the world leading to great tension. The leaders on both sides lose their grip on the situation and then, suddenly, they find they have gone too far and cannot prevent it—although neither side really wished to start a major war."

It is to prevent such a "miscalculation or mistake" that the principals in the Geneva conference are talking to each other privately and with a cordiality and frankness which thus far afford the only basis for a hope that a third world war can be prevented.

Fulton Democrats Rip City's 'Non-Partisan' Unit

By ANNE GOWEN

In an action-packed meeting Wednesday, the Fulton County Democratic Executive Committee voted to:

1. Work to replace Atlanta's non-partisan City Executive Committee with a "bona fide Democratic Party organization" to hold primary elections.

PRESENT PLAN PROPOSAL

2. Present a Fulton-Atlanta "one government" to voters in the county primary Sept. 8.

3. Open primary entries for county offices Thursday and close them July 3. The committee also specified entry fees.

County committeemen blasted the City Executive Committee's action a year ago when it dropped the designation "Democratic" from its name.

They voted to appoint a subcommittee "to take necessary steps to inaugurate a new City Democratic Executive Committee."

Mrs. Robert MacDougall, chairman of the City Executive Committee, said it was elected to hold 1957 city primaries and it intends to do so. The 1953 committee dropped the "Democratic" label after proponents declared members of both political parties participated in the city primary.

CALLS SHAME

The county committeemen said it is a "shame" there is "no bona fide Democratic organization" in the city. They challenged the city committee's authority to vote itself non-partisan.

The one-government question was broached by County Committeeman Jimmy Vickers, who said it will be placed on general election ballots in November and should be submitted in the primary "so more people can vote on it."

The question will appear: "Do you favor complete consolidation of the City of Atlanta and Fulton County governments?" Vickers said the result will be "the people's mandate to their legislators."

REDUCE TAX

He contended the one-government plan would lower taxes by "removing duplication" in city and county school departments, public works, fire protection, courts and policy-making offices.

Entry fees will be higher for most county offices at stake—$1,800 for two Civil Court judges, instead of $1,500 as in 1952; $900 fee for three county commission seats instead of $750, and $400 instead of $300 for three General Assembly seats.

The $1,350 fees for three Superior judges remain the same. There will again be no fee to run for a seat on the County Democratic Executive Committee.

BIGGERS RECEIVES TRIBUTE AT SAMUEL INMAN SCHOOL
(L-R) Paulagene Todd, Robert Norris, Biggers, Mrs. Biggers, Mrs. Satterfield

Inman Students, Teachers Honor Biggers

By HERMAN HANCOCK

George C. Biggers, president of Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., was honored in skit and song Wednesday at Samuel Inman School for his contributions to the state and nation and to education.

Students and faculty of the elementary school staged the tribute as local school officials, Atlantans and newspapermen looked on. The affair followed a luncheon at the school cafeteria.

The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal made up the motif as waiters and waitresses appeared garbed in newspapers, and place cards depicted toy paper vendors hawking local dailies.

Mrs. Ruth Satterfield, school principal, opened the celebration with a tribute to Biggers. She praised him as a man, as a leader and as a "friend of education."

Mrs. D. C. Kerlin acted as narrator over a loud speaker, billed as "Station WSB, The Voice of the South." Mrs. Ann Shirley and Mrs. George E. Akin were co-directors.

A skit related that since the merger of The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal in 1950, "the community has moved onward, with vision, honesty, integrity, better homes, better schools and a better city in which to live." Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., under leadership of Biggers, was labeled as a "pace setter."

5 Counties Establish Study on Waterworks

By MARJORY SMITH

County commissioners from Fulton, DeKalb, Clayton, Cobb and Gwinnett counties set up a special committee here Wednesday as first step in a proposed plan for eventual establishment of a central water authority for Metropolitan Atlanta.

If such an authority is created, spokesmen indicated, it would "work toward solving problems of water supply for communities throughout Atlanta's metropolitan area" and would probably issue water revenue certificates.

The group acted on motion of Fulton County Commissioner R. L. Doyal to name a committee comprising county attorneys from the five counties and Atlanta's city attorney. This committee was authorized to meet with Mayor Hartsfield, Atlanta Water Works Manager Paul Weir and Alderman James Jackson, chairman of the city water committee, "to get the city's thinking on the matter and to set up legal machinery to allow each political subdivision to share cost of an engineering survey."

of a central water authority would not infringe on existing city water systems.

Doyal earlier had asked the group to pass a resolution authorizing the special committee to work on legislation to be taken to the Georgia Assembly for creation of a Metropolitan Atlanta Water Authority. He amended the motion after Alderman Lee Evans, only city representative present, said an engineering survey should be made to determine whether such an authority would be feasible.

Airman Shoots Divorcee, Kills Passerby and Self

FOLEY, Ala., May 26 (AP)—A Navy airman shot a divorcee from ambush today, killed a passing motorist caught in the line of fire and shot himself to death.

Coroner Fred Thrasher returned a verdict of murder and suicide.

Killed were David Leonard Willis, 22, of Gulf Shores, Ala., a former Foley High School athletic star, and George Washington Carter, 33, of Weogufka, Ala. Both men were stationed at Barin Field.

Mrs. Sue Clark, mother of two children, was shot in the hip and was in "fair" condition.

Thrasher said Carter killed Willis and shot Mrs. Clark and committed suicide by sending a bullet through his head. The shootings took place near Canal Field, an auxiliary landing field near Foley.

Foley police officer John Leslie Davis gave this account of the shootings:

Carter, who had been keeping company with Mrs. Clark, barricaded himself behind a mound of earth in a ditch across the road from Mrs. Clark's house this morning.

Mrs. Clark ran from a car toward her house and was wounded by a rifle bullet.

Willis was caught in the fire as he drove past and was killed by a bullet which ripped through his car.

Carter then shot himself. His body was found lying in the ditch, a high-powered rifle by his side.

Sheriff Taylor Wilkins said he was investigating a report Carter had threatened Mrs. Clark recently about going out with other men.

Cuba Seizes 10 in Blow At 'Uprising'

HAVANA, Cuba, May 26 (AP)—At least 10 persons were under arrest today as the government pushed a roundup of opposition leaders after thwarting an "insurrectional movement."

The government newspaper Alenta said a number of "insurrectionists" escaped pursuit by military intelligence agents yesterday and gained asylum in several foreign embassies, including those of Mexico, Costa Rica and Guatemala.

The same paper said the insurrectionists' plans, allegedly disclosed in seized documents, included assassination of President Fulgencio Batista and of several political opposition leaders listed as "traitors" to the movement.

Aureliano Sanchez Arango, prime minister under former President Carlos Prio Socarras, whom Batista deposed, was believed to be the head of the "insurrectional movement."

'This Is My Last Breath' Gasps Trapped Sailor to Buddy on Phone

QUONSET POINT, R. I., May 26 (AP)—The words came slowly—"This is my last breath." Then the phone went dead.

"It isn't fun to hear men die," said seaman Edward Cushman of New Milford, Conn., today as he told of talking by telephone with doomed buddies trapped below deck of the explosion-wrecked aircraft carrier Bennington.

Cushman said he talked to personnel just before they suffocated in the Bennington's damage control center as shipmates struggled feverishly through smoke and debris to reach them.

"I talked with those guys for an hour and three quarters," Cushman said. "They were pleading to hurry up and get to them before they ran out of air."

"DIDN'T HELP MUCH"

"We told them to lie face down with wet rags over their faces, but it didn't help much. The last words I heard were 'This is my last breath.'"

George Veta, 25, Brooklyn, N. Y., a fireman, said he also talked with the trapped men by phone.

"They said they were suffocating and asked us to please hurry up and break through," Veta said.

"I dropped the phone and tried to get down there."

"Hatches were blown closed and bulkheads were curved in. Everybody worked hard but we were too late. I think only one of those guys was still alive by the time we got there."

Another fireman, Merle R. Wilson, 23, Clarion, Iowa, said "a chief carpenter down there pleaded with us to get in with oxygen."

"OTHER GUYS FIRST"

"He said he wanted to get the other guys out first," Wilson said. "He was one of the men we found dead in there."

"Just as soon as the fires were killed and we could get down, men with oxygen breathing apparatus went below to get the casualties," Wilson related.

"We found a lot of bodies on the forward mess deck and I guess about one third of all the steward's mates were killed," he said. "Other dead were in the warrant officers' wardroom and the port catapult room."

Wilson added grimly: "When we got down there pumping I suppose we'll find other bodies under the water."

Still stunned by their experience and loss of their buddies, neither Cushman, Veta nor Wilson could

'Solar Boat' Uncovered in Giza Pyramid

CAIRO, Egypt, May 26 (AP)—An Egyptian archeologist, probing the Great Pyramid of Giza, has found a 5,000-year-old "solar boat" which was supposed to carry the souls of Egypt's pharaohs to the sun, it was announced today.

The finder, Kamal el Malakh, said he considered the discovery more important than the finding of King Tutankhamon's jewel-filled tomb in 1923.

El Malakh, Egypt's director of excavations for Giza and the Nile-Delta area, said he found the "boat" by accident in an air-tight section of rock 50 feet from the Great Pyramid's base on the southern side.

The ancient boat, he said, was made of ceremonial sycamore wood and was still perfumed.

Diggers directed by El Malakh were cutting into a limestone rock wall believed to cover a corridor possibly leading to the southern tomb of King Cheops for whom the Great Pyramid, one of the seven wonders of the world, was built.

Keep Calm, Gowen Tells Candidates

Gubernatorial candidate Charlie Gowen said Wednesday that persons seeking Georgia's highest office should set their own example by being calm and willing to face each situation realistically and intelligently.

Gowen scored gubernatorial candidates who he said have tried to stir up strife.

JUDGE RACE

In other political developments, Judge H. E. Nichols qualified for the race for judge of the Court of Appeals; Judge Mac Hicks qualified for judge of the Floyd Superior Court, and gubernatorial candidate Marvin Griffin named his brother, Cheney, as his campaign manager.

Southern attorneys general postponed until June a conference originally scheduled here for Wednesday.

Speaking to the Montezuma Kiwanis club, Gowen said: "The people of Georgia have been asked to remain calm in the crisis presented by the Supreme Court decision, and they have been calm. On the other hand, certain candidates for governor have been ranting and trying to stir up confusion and discord."

HURT SCHOOLS

"One unthinking candidate is said to have seriously injured the School Building Authority. And attempts by another candidate to incite race against race is sheer demagoguery. Unless it is stopped promptly, a situation may well develop that would react to the eternal shame of the people of Georgia."

Gowen apparently referred to an editorial by gubernatorial candidate Tom Linder in the Market Bulletin, stating that the court decision had "thrown over" the State School Building Authority; and to a speech by gubernatorial candidate Marvin Griffin, who shouted, "I take my stand with the white people."

The men who entered the judgeship races Wednesday are currently serving through appointment of Gov. Talmadge. Nichols was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Court of Appeals created when Judge I. H. Sutton moved to the Supreme Court. Hicks was appointed to replace Nichols on the Floyd Superior Court.

NEWS EDITOR

Cheney Griffin, 39, is mayor of Bainbridge and is managing editor of the Post-Searchlight. He is a member of the State Veterans Service Board. He assisted Marvin Griffin in three races for lieutenant-governor.

Atty. Gen. Cook said that all 17 states affected by the segregation decision have agreed that their attorneys general meet in Atlanta after the governors' conference on segregation June 10. He anticipated that Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and South Carolina may work out a mutual plan to try to delay or circumvent the court ruling. Different situations exist in the other 12 states, he said, so the meeting probably won't result in any uniformity of action for all of them.

Mayors' Meeting In July To Hear Candidates Urged

The Georgia Municipal Assn. may hold a special meeting in Macon in July to give candidates for governor a chance to promise cities new benefits.

Mayor Sam Welsh of Marietta, acting president, said Wednesday the proposal hasn't gone very far yet but he is for it.

The GMA's regular convention will be held in Savannah in October. That date will follow the Democratic primary.

Air Station Wins Navy's Industrial, Vehicle Safety Award

The Atlanta Naval Air Station Wednesday was cited for an outstanding record of industrial and motor vehicle safety during 1953.

The "Industrial Safety Award" and the "Motor Vehicle Safety Award," together with a commendatory letter from the Secretary of the Navy, were presented to Capt. J. H. S. Johnson, commanding officer, by Rear Adm. D. V. Gallery, chief of Naval Air Reserve Training.

The presentation took place at the annual conference of commanding officers of stations of the Naval Air Training Command held at the command's headquarters in Glenview, Ill.

Ten other stations of the command also received safety citations at the Glenview conference.

Safety awards are based on records encompassing Navy, Marine and civilian personnel who comprise the "working force" of a naval air station.

Flight records, however, are computed separately and are not considered in industrial and motor vehicle category.

Expert Puts Tract Value At $50,000

A jury Wednesday heard a timber expert's testimony that the timber on a 900-acre Fulton-owned tract was valued at some $50,000 at 1950 prices.

The testimony came in the third day of trial in Fulton Superior Court of Sol. Gen. Paul Webb's suit to invalidate the County Commission's sale of the timber to James T. Malcom for $30,500.

The estimate came in a deposition from John G. Rawls, Macon timber appraiser, who cruised the county forest shortly after the controversial sale.

Webb's suit contends the trees are worth $60,000 or more and he claims the commissioners knew of the value when they wanted to bid on the timber when it was sold to Malcom on a negotiated contract at the commission's morning session on Oct. 4, 1950. This, he said, constitutes "legal fraud" and is grounds to void the sale.

Rawls' deposition, read by County Atty. Harold Sheats, stated he estimated 2,276,000 board feet of pine and 603,000 board feet of hardwood in the timber stand.

But Rawls admitted a lumberman's profit would be decreased if he cleared away treetops and branches as Malcom agreed to do in the contract.

Rawls, who was employed to make the cruise by Starr Lumber Co., one of the firms Webb contends the commission knew wanted to bid on the trees, said the timber is "above average in size and quality" and located so it can be marketed easily.

Body in Road Runs Away From Rescue

By KEELER McCARTY

Motorists got a double shock Wednesday night on Campbellson road, near Epworth street.

The first shock came when the headlights from autos picked up a crumpled, blood-stained figure of a child sprawled by the roadside.

Invariably the startled drivers gasped in amazement. Then they slammed on brakes to stop and render aid.

The second shock came when the "lifeless" figure hopped to its feet and scampered out of sight.

Then someone called the police.

Patrolmen C. E. Strickland and V. J. Clover, who investigated, found that a group of eight-year-olds had thought up a new game.

They soaked one youth in cat-snip swiped from the kitchen pantry to get the "blood-stained" effect. Then they posed him by the roadside to resemble a hit-run auto victim.

The patrolmen marched the "victim" and his accomplices to their respective homes and reported to parents that the game could result in a real tragedy.

Miss Woodfin Quits School After 43 Yrs.

Miss Belle Woodfin, who has taught the grandchildren of some of her first pupils, is retiring after 43 years as a teacher at John B. Gordon School, Metropolitan Ave., S.E.

An "institution" at the Gordon school, she started teaching there in 1911 after serving her first year as a teacher at Inman Park School.

Miss Woodfin will be honored by the Gordon PTA at a tea at 4 p.m. Sunday at the school auditorium.

Miss Woodfin estimates she has taught 2,000 students.

When she started teaching at Gordon School, it was a five-classroom frame building attended by about 150 students. Today it is a 31-classroom brick building attended by more than 1,000.

About her retirement, Mrs. Woodfin says:

"I alternate between being very happy—because it's a tremendous job to teach—and being depressed, because I love children."

Chest Accepts Health Council And Girls Club

Two Atlanta organizations were admitted to membership in the Atlanta Community Chest-Council here Wednesday at the semi-annual meeting of the Chest-Council's delegate assembly.

Delegates voted to admit the Atlanta Girls Club and the Industrial Health Council and recommended that the budget committee consider them for an allocation in the Community Chest fund-raising drive.

The budget committee is scheduled to hold hearings May 31.

June 7, and a final decision on whether the two new agencies will receive Chest funds will be made by the Chest-Council board of directors at a June 24 meeting.

Durante Hailed for Clayton Tribute

By ED SULLIVAN

NEW YORK, May 26—Jimmy Durante's tribute to Lou Clayton, in his Copa show, called "corny" by some, solid showmanship by others. This dep't supports Durante, for the very good reason that Durante has paid more than lip service to Clayton's memory. He has paid part of his earnings to Mrs. Clayton ever since his partner died! . . . G. David Schine and Gita Hall an item. . . Resorts and beaches screaming, because of weather. . . Jon Hall dating Linda Danson. . . Bob Christenberry named "Marine of the Year" by Marine Reserve Officers. . . Walkie-talkies used by guides at the Museum of Natural History. . . Sign on a 10th Avenue pushcart: "Recommended by Duncan Hines." . . Where were the Phillies private eyes a few years ago when Waitkus got shot, queries Joyce Bryant.

Despite the fact that Ava Gardner has called Hollywood friends to rent a house for her, the colony is betting she'll go back with Frank Sinatra. . . Shirley Booth and Wilbur Evans, stars of "By the Beautiful Sea," El Morocco. . . Mitzl Gaynor and agent Jack Bean to merge in October. . . Charlie Chaplin won't act in his next film about an exiled king. He'll write, direct and produce.

Arthur Loew Jr.'s mother in Las Vegas, for the papers. . . Shelley Winters and Ivan Moffatt a combo. . . Roger Bannister rejected agent Joe Glaser's offer of $25,000, just to sign. . . Lindbergh role in "Spirit of St. Louis" may be landed by Metro's John Erikson.

Lily Pons and Andre Kostelanetz hope the rumors will be squelched when they give a joint concert performance at Lewisohn Stadium July 3. . . Paramount producer Sam Briskin's son, Bernie, honeymooning with Carol Weizman.

Leslie Caron's ex, George Horne, dating Rita Moreno. . . Bruce Cabot and Francesca De Scaffa readying a divorce. . . State Senator Seymour Halpern ailing at Mount Sinai. . . Mario Braggiotti to marry an eye-fall named Osborne.

Bill LeBaron trying to buy "Diamond Lil" from Paramount, to remake it in partnership with Mae West, for Columbia. . . Goodman and Kirkwood comedy team splitting. . . The Axel Stordahls (June Hutton) expect Sir Stork. . . Gloria Swanson back from Pittsburgh. . . Dick Contino's Mercury wax of "Bye-Bye Love" zooming.

Margaret Whiting and Dolores Gray's brother serious. . . Matty Fox-Yolande Bebeze merger set for July 4, at Nate Blumberg's Hollywood home. . . Peggy Ann Garner's favorite escort, Mark Miller. . . MGM screen-testing Billie Dove's son, Bob Kenaston. . . Milton Merle's secretary, Sandy Gray, rushed to Cedars of Lebanon for surgery.

"Lady's Not for Burning" and "Cocktail Party" on citronella circuit this summer. . . Vince Edwards very serious about Guy Mitchell's ex, Jackie Loughery. . . Jim Eilers has an Oklahoma farmer friend who made good; his cow gave oil.

MAKE DEBUT—Susan Ball, heroic screen actress who was crippled by cancer, and her handsome husband, Richard Long, will be co-starred in the Lux Video Theater presentation of "I'll Never Love Again" to be seen at 8 p.m. on WAGA-TV Thursday.

Young, Drew Co-Star at 8:30

Hollywood's Robert Young makes his first television appearance

when he stars in Ford Theater's "Keep It in the Family" co-starring Ellen Drew at 8:30 p.m. on WSB-TV.

Young plays the head of a family almost buried under teen-aged problems when his daughter is approached by a theatrical talent scout. When the worried father investigates the agent, he discovers the scout is actually a drama school recruiter. As the much-harried family head, he must save the situation.

Young has worked in several radio series. The popular leading man numbers among his recent film credits "Halfbreed" and "Bride for Sale." Miss Drew is co-starred as his wife. Her last Ford Theater appearance was in the Western drama, "Gun Job."

Wife's $500 Prize Means a Farm for Disabled Hubby

An Atlanta housewife who needed a down payment to buy a farm for her disabled husband and their seven children Wednesday night won $500 on a nationally televised program.

Mrs. Edward Campbell of 63 Hunter St., S. E., answered correctly a series of questions on the MBS-TV show "Strike It Rich," carried in Atlanta by WAGA-TV.

She was summoned to New York to appear on the show after her neighbor, Mrs. R. T. Whiddy, wrote the program's director explaining Mrs. Campbell's difficulty in "trying to make ends meet."

The first diesel engines were built about 1895.

Trapped Marine Smashes Free To Lead Rescuers

By WILLIAM M. FARRELL.

QUONSET POINT, R.I., May 26—Rescue work aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington got under way almost instantaneously this morning, long before the smoke and fumes had cleared from the scene of the sudden disastrous ship fire.

Sailors and Marines were wrenched from sleep or routine tasks, and plunged into the grisly work of saving shipmates who lay burned, the damage and injury was mostly in officers' staterooms, and in dining and lounge areas, or in passages connecting such areas.

To reach the casualties, some of the survivors had to fight their way out of the blast-torn staterooms. Those who could get hold of mask-type breathing devices put them on, and worked for hours at searching out and moving the injured. Others kept at the task as long as they could stand the suffocating atmosphere.

One of those who narrowly missed injury and helped organize the rescue work was Marine Lt. Carl Gage of Lynnfield, Mass. He and Capt. David Twomey, commander of the ship's detachment of Marines, were asleep in their stateroom when the fire started.

They had barely awakened when a blast caved in two temporary metal walls, or bulkheads, of the room, and a ball of flame burst from the ventilator.

The two men found themselves trapped in their room. Using a rifle as a crowbar, they managed to get a door open, only to find a fire blazing in the passage outside.

"We put out that fire and started up a ladder to the hangar deck," Gage said. "The top of the ladder was blocked by two bodies, and we had to move them to get by."

The two men found others groping into the area and organized them into rescue parties. Time after time their work was blocked by debris, or by the bodies of injured shipmates.

Groups led by Gage and Ens.

Governor's Wife Pays Tax Penalty

Not even the Governor's wife can escape a penalty for not paying the Georgia sales tax.

Mrs. Talmadge said Wednesday she had paid $182.83 for back sales tax collections on her ham curing business, plus approximately $50 in fines and penalties assessed by Revenue Commissioner Charlie Redwine.

It was a bookkeeping error, the First Lady said. When she discovered the books had gotten fouled up, Mrs. Talmadge asked the sales tax unit to send a representative to investigate her business.

William Schultz and other commissioned and non-commissioned officers made their way through passages choked with twisted steel plates, along walls coated with oil.

Fuel lines in the walls had burst, adding to the emergency.

STIFFES FIRE

"I think the last blast blew out the fire," Gage said. At any rate, the chief obstacles to the rescue work were the deadly fumes and the blocked passages.

"We couldn't use stretchers down there—it was hard enough just to walk," the lieutenant said. "We carried the men by hand till we could get them into clear spaces. Then they were put on stretchers and moved to one of the bays on an upper deck."

"Most of them had had their clothes burned off, and many were bleeding from the mouth. I believe their lungs had been singed, and some died while we were trying to get them out. We were able to get all of the men, though, and it was wonderful the way everyone helped. After we had taken out all we could find, we checked staterooms and other places to see that nobody had been overlooked."

DECKS RIPPED

The areas wrecked by the fire and blasts were on the first and second decks below the hangar deck, generally forward of the ship's "island," or superstructure. This part of the body of the vessel is thickly armored, so that externally there was virtually no sign of the damage.

Inside, however, the conservatively decorated officers' wardroom and warrant officers' wardroom, as well as the crew's dining room, were a shambles. The wardrooms are lounge and dining areas, and at the time of the fire they were only lightly occupied. The crew's quarters were more heavily in use, and casualties there were severe. Officers in their staterooms also were hard hit, and smoldering mattresses added to the handicaps of the rescuers.

Compartment doors were closed so as to confine the area of damage. A passage on the lower decks and two hatches provided the routes over which the burned and injured men were carried.

AID STATION

On the hangar deck, from which the ship's island rises alongside the flight decks, hospital corpsmen and others set up aid stations for the administration of blood plasma, sedatives and other emergency medications. Some of the injured had been cut or hurt by water pitchers, crockery and anything else that was not fastened down, at the explosion.

While the personnel of the Bennington concentrated on controlling the disaster, she followed her escort, the destroyer Ingraham, up Narragansett Bay.

On the shore, prearranged emergency plans were put into effect. Naval and Coast Guard stations sent helicopters to land on the flight deck of the moving carrier. Making dozens of flights from bases in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the flying machines took off scores of wounded.

From First Naval District headquarters in Boston, 21 physicians, corpsmen and other medical personnel were flown here, to be on hand for arrival of the Bennington. Civilian doctors in the neighborhood offered their services. Before it became apparent that naval facilities were adequate, some local residents offered the use of their homes. One survivor had a wry comment.

"I was due to go off duty," he said, "and if my relief had been on time I'd have gone to chow—and maybe been killed."

Queen's Medal For Poet Hodgson

LONDON, May 26 (AP)—Ralph Hodgson, 83-year-old English-born poet now living in Ohio, has been awarded the queen's gold medal for poetry for 1954, Buckingham Palace announced tonight.

Hodgson formerly was a lecturer and professor of English studies at Sendai University in Japan.

AFL Dockers Lose to ILA in Tainted Vote

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—The mob-dominated International Longshoremen's Association won an "inconclusive" victory over a new AFL union in a bargaining election today but the National Labor Relations Board said 1,719 challenged ballots would have to be recounted.

The ILA received 9,110 unchallenged votes to 8,791 unchallenged votes for the AFL union. But 1,719 ballots were challenged by one side or the other.

"The results at this time do not determine the winner of the election and will not until a final disposition of the challenged ballots," Charles Douds, regional NLRB director, said.

Injured Climber Stranded In Fatal Spill on M'Kinley

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 26 (AP)—One young mountaineer climber is dead and another lying seriously injured on the 14,000-foot level on towering Mt. McKinley after a "terrible spill" that ended a student expedition.

Two bruised and battered survivors of the tragedy brought the story here last night. A mission was organized today to try to rescue the injured man.

The four-man expedition of University of Alaska students or ex-students went up the 20,300-foot mountain, highest on the North American continent, April 17. They had been listed as overdue 10 days. A search had started yesterday. They were found by chance by an unidentified forest ranger who was working on an outlying road job in Mt. McKinley Park.

The rescue party of experienced climbers will try to go by helicopter to the 8,000 or 9,000 foot level and then hike to the gravely injured man, George Argus.

Fragmentary reports said the five-day food supply left him in an improvised tent shelter would run out today.

The man killed in the fall down the sheer and icy slope was Elton Thayer, a well-known Alaska climber.

The two men who struggled down the mountain with the story of the tragedy were Martin Wood and Leslie Bierbeck.

Ensign Dunwoody Tunno of Savannah.

Seaman Charles Cameron Jr., 21, of Thomson.

Third-class Gunner's Mate Welden T. Neal Jr., 22, of Thomson. Other Georgians reported aboard the ship were:

Seaman James R. Perkins, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Perkins, Statham, and brother of Misses Jean and Mary Perkins, 963 Ponce de Leon Ave., NE, Atlanta.

Willis Smith, 36, brother of Mrs. Quintus Roseberry of Scottdale.

Richard V. Banks, 40, whose wife and three children live at Albany.

John McLendon, 24, originally of Monticello, whose wife lives at 1156 Piedmont Ave., NE.

Airman Donald Lewis Holcomb, son of Mrs. C. T. Davidson of 1140 Faith Ave., SE. His wife lives at 619 Rankin St., NE.

Howard W. Maddox of West Point.

David F. Nance, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Nance of Union City.

For several Georgians it was the second time in 13 months that they had survived a blast aboard the aircraft carrier.

W. F. Hartley of 1762 South Pryor Rd., Atlanta, said his son-in-law, Howard Maddox, survived the April, 1953, explosion that killed 11 men.

Hartley said Maddox had told him after last year's explosion that he and several other crewmen had applied for transfers because they considered the ship a "jinx." Maddox had said that last year's explosion was the second aboard the ship.

Walden Neal and Charles Cameron, former schoolmates at Thomson High School and now shipmates aboard the carrier, also escaped injury in the 1953 blast.

After Neal's father received a telegram Wednesday night from his son, he sighed and said: "We sweated them out today just as we did last year."

Ensign Dunwoody Tunno telephoned his mother in Savannah Wednesday night to tell her his air group had taken off from the Bennington just before the explosion that killed his hometown companion, Lt. Drew.

SLEEPING ON 2ND DECK
Seaman Robert Stoner of Atlanta, who was in last year's explosion, telephoned his wife that he was sleeping on the second deck when Wednesday's blast rocked the ship.

Stoner, scheduled to be discharged in 32 days after four years' service, said survivors had the unpleasant job of trying to identify the dead. He said many of the victims were burned beyond recognition. He said there were places in the wreckage of the giant ship that would take hours for rescuers to reach.

4-3 Vote Dismisses Charges Against Hensel and Carr

erick van Pelt Bryan, said the committee vote completely vindicated the defense official.

To the Republican contention that no evidence had been offered against Hensel, Democrats responded that only Army witnesses had been heard so far, and that the accusations came from the McCarthy camp, which has not yet been required to repeat its charge under oath.

The subcommittee decision generally was interpreted as a victory for McCarthy, voted him by his Republican associates who still are to pass on the charges of whether the senator and Cohn were guilty of improper conduct in pressuring the Army on behalf of Schine.

The Republican move to drop two principals and thus shorten the public hearings came as the Army completed presentation of its case, and Cohn was called as the first witness on the McCarthy side of the controversy.

There were these other developments:

1. McCarthy asserted his authority as the regular chairman of the investigating subcommittee by issuing a verbal subpoena for an Army report listing the names of those responsible for promoting and granting an honorable discharge to Maj. Irving Peress, a New York dental officer.

Peress refused to tell the Army or McCarthy whether he had Communist affiliations. The Army report had been furnished in confidence by agreement to Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel for this inquiry, and McCarthy moved to keep control of the information when Jenkins wanted to return it to the Army.

2. Schine's company commander at Ft. Dix, Capt. Joseph J. M. Miller, testified the private was absent without leave New Year's Even, but that the Army took no action in the case after Cohn intervened later to request an official pass.

McCarthy dramatized his displeasure with Capt. Miller's testimony, which he called "drivel," by absenting himself from the hearings for 15 minutes.

3. Republicans and Democrats had another inconclusive wrangle about admitting into evidence the Army's records of monitored telephone calls between Army Secretary Stevens and other persons involved in this controversy.

4. The subcommittee voted itself a long Memorial holiday weekend, from Friday night until Tuesday morning, but predictions still were made the hearings may be brought to a conclusion next week.

When the hearings resume at 9 a.m. tomorrow (Atlanta time), Cohn will be on the witness stand for what is expected to be a long period of direct and cross-examination. He was sworn as a witness but was asked no questions as the subcommittee quit today at the conclusion of its long debate over the motion to dismiss charges against Carr and Hensel.

That argument was featured by the stinging remarks of Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and the anguished appeals of Welch as they joined forces in battling the Republican determination to get Carr and Hensel out of the case.

tered the engine room just after the explosion and helped remove the dead and injured.
Another crew member, Bruno Costantini, Detroit, was in the mess hall when he heard two distinct explosions.
Crewman Howard Raines, Brooklyn, said the warrant officers' mess was the worst hit. "There were more than 20 warrant officers in there eating breakfast, and I don't think any of them got out alive," Raines said.

"The cooks got it just as bad. I know 25 of them were wiped out."
The fire that followed the blast raged for four hours before heroic crewmen were able to bring it under control.
"I'm mighty proud of the way the crew acted," said Raborn. "They displayed remarkable feats of heroism."
The facilities of the carrier's sick-bay soon were hopelessly overtaxed.

One of the Bennington's two doctors was killed in the blast. The surviving doctor, Clyde Norman, address unknown, was credited by Capt. Raborn with saving many lives.
Ens. L. D. Clapsdale, Texarkana, Tex., said the casualty figures would have been higher but for an earlier-than-usual morning flight.

"Luckily, flight quarters came at 5:30 a.m. That was the only thing that saved this from really being a corker," Clapsdale said. He said the center of the blast seemed to be in a pilot's ready room where officers and men were preparing for the early takeoff.

The disaster was the second only in U.S. Naval history to the collision of the carrier Wasp and destroyer Hobson in Mid-Atlantic

April 26, 1952. The death toll then was 176.
President Eisenhower sent a message of condolence from Washington, offering his sympathy to the families of those who were killed or injured. He also ordered appointment of a special board to investigate the disaster.
Secretary of the Navy Thomas, who has a son of his own aboard another carrier, said he came to the scene because he "wanted the families of the men on board to know what a deep personal interest I have."

Atlantan Ended Sea Duty Friday; Survived Bennington's 1953 Blast

Chester "Buddy" Smith, 20, who a year ago narrowly escaped death on the aircraft carrier Bennington, had just reached home Wednesday when he heard of the latest disaster to befall the ill-fated ship.

Smith, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Grady Smith, reside at 1103 Hardee St. NE, received a discharge from the Navy Friday after three and one-half years' service. The last 15 months he spent on the Bennington.

In April, 1953, Smith was fireman first class on the Bennington when an explosion near Cuba killed 11 men. Smith said he had left the engine room only a few moments before the explosion occurred. He rushed back inside to help remove the dead and wounded.

He left the carrier Friday before the Bennington set out upon the latest cruise.

The helicopter evacuation of wounded from the carrier deck to the lawn of Newport Naval Hospital was supervised by Rear Adm. Hoskins, who developed the technique in Korean combat.

The ship left Norfolk, Va., on Monday to rendezvous with a task force apparently off New England. The task force was to take midshipmen on their annual training cruise.

The huge carrier, of the Essex class, was built in the Brooklyn Navy Yard and commissioned in 1944. It saw valiant service in the Pacific area in the late stages of World War II and was later put into mothballs.

It was reactivated in 1952 and was on its shakedown cruise last year when an explosion killed 11 crewmen.

The Bennington was named for the famous Revolutionary War battle at Bennington, Vt.

Another Navy carrier, the Leyte, was badly damaged by an explosion while berthed in Boston last Oct. 16. Thirty-seven men lost their lives in that disaster.

Hospital officials said the quick rescue probably "saved the lives" of most of the casualties.

south of New England when the blast occurred below decks.

Some members of its 2,300-man crew were lined up for breakfast and others were on the deck. A flight of 18 Cougar jet fighter planes had just been sent aloft. It was 6:20 a.m. when Raborn heard the muffled explosion. Sec-

'Angel' To Arrive In Paris Saturday

PARIS, May 26 (AP)—Lt. Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, the "Angel of Dien Bien Phu" released two days ago by the Communists, is expected to arrive in Paris by air Saturday, French sources reported today.
The 29-year-old French air nurse will visit briefly with her mother here. She is expected to return to Indochina to complete her nursing contract which runs until January, 1955.

onds later alarm bells clanged and fire control and rescue parties rushed down ladders to the smoking interior of the ship.
"I realized it was a catastrophe," Raborn said. "So I launched the rest of the air group to clear the decks."

Aviation Electricians Mate Francis Toth, Phoenixville, Pa., who joined the Bennington crew three days ago, said the engine room "looked like hell." He en-

SUMMER'S FOR PAY

Mrs. Margaret Williams

Summer-- Time for Play, Pay

By DOTTY LUNDY

Some sweet girl grads will co-star with a strapping summer romance for a three-months-run at the neighborhood swimming pool and HIS convertible.

Others think of vacation time in terms of the number of extra cashmieres they can pack for college—if they land a summer job. For the lucky few, June to August means studying travel folders instead of geographies.

TAKE TO TRAIL

Some June graduates take to the trail—serving as counselors at Girl Scout, "Y" or private camps. Still another group will take another path—one scented with orange blossoms.

Here's what's in store for three Atlanta high school graduating seniors.

JoAnn Judy, class of '54, Sacred Heart High, plans to pound the asphalt downtown and at the tennis court, pursuing a summer job and a ball. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Judy, 126 Emerson Ave., Decatur, JoAnn was recently named May Queen of Sacred Heart.

JoRuth Thorne, Bass High graduate, has already landed a vacation job selling jewelry at a local women's specialty store and a summer romance in the form of a Kappa Alpha pin. The daughter of Mrs. Lois Thorne, 865 Arlington Pl., N.E., she wants to take a commercial course at the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia in the fall.

TEXAS BOUND

Erlene Fowler of 2178 Springdale Rd., S.W., candidate for a Sylvan High diploma, will head to Houston, Texas, before her graduation flowers droop. After a few weeks at her parents', Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meier's ranch, she and her mother will fly to Maracaibo, Venezuela, to join her father, in the oil construction business. Before she enters finishing school in Florida, Erlene will take a spin around South America and the Caribbean. She has lived with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Alford, while at Sylvan.

Manuscript Club Dinner To Mark Anniversary

The Manuscript Club holds its seventeenth anniversary dinner on Friday at 6:30 p.m. in the banquet room of The Town House.

Speaker will be Dr. James P. Wesberry, pastor of the Morningside Baptist Church. Special guests will be Mrs. Wesberry, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Reeves and Mrs. Raymond Massey.

New officers will be installed by Mrs. Joseph E. Buffington. Mrs. Elizabeth Laxton is in charge of reservations for the dinner which will be open to visitors.

The poetry forum will meet Sunday at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Mildred Finch at 526 Hardendorf Ave., N.E., with Mrs. Laxton as assistant hostess.

Beauty and Brains Are Correlated

By IDA JEAN KAIN

There is an ancient proverb to the effect that beauty and wisdom are seldom found together. That statement can no longer be accepted at face value. According to psychologists, beauty and brains are positively correlated.

Another proverb, also outdated, asserts that women who are much older than they look seldom have much intelligence. With all that is known about keeping young today, no wise woman ever looks her age—not by a score of years.

The dictionary definition of beauty is provocative. "Having the qualities which constitute beauty; full of beauty; delightful to the sense."

HEALTH IMPORTANT

So this brings us to which qualities contribute most beauty to woman—health, perfect features, normal weight, a good figure, superb posture? Or is it serenity, a pleasing expression or a spiritual beauty? Health is undeniably important to beauty. But health alone doesn't guarantee loveliness.

At one time I would have thought there could be no beauty without health. But some women in poor health who have turned to the Creator, develop a spiritual radiance that outshines mere physical perfection.

It's been said that nobody is responsible for her face up to age thirty. From then on, she shapes it.

The physiologist Rubner wrote that aging of the features depends largely on facial expression.

SOUTHWEST ROYALTY

Queen, Fay Tripp, tries the royal headgear on king of Southwest High, O. D. Williams. Coronation for the two took place recently at the school's annual spring ball held in the gym.

For First Lady— Campaign 'Scares' The Mrs.

By JEAN ROONEY

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of personality stories on the wives of Georgia's gubernatorial candidates. The articles will appear daily on the women's pages of The Atlanta Constitution.

One gubernatorial candidate's wife admitted she was "kind of scared" at the official kick-off of the governor's race this week.

And the other times she was facing an unknown opponent instead of well-known statesmen, like the five who now oppose her husband for the governor's seat.

Other times that the small Jackson homemaker knew fear were when she and her family received threatening letters and phone calls. They came often during the years that her husband, a crusading ex-solicitor of Flint Circuit Court, was prosecuting controversial cases.

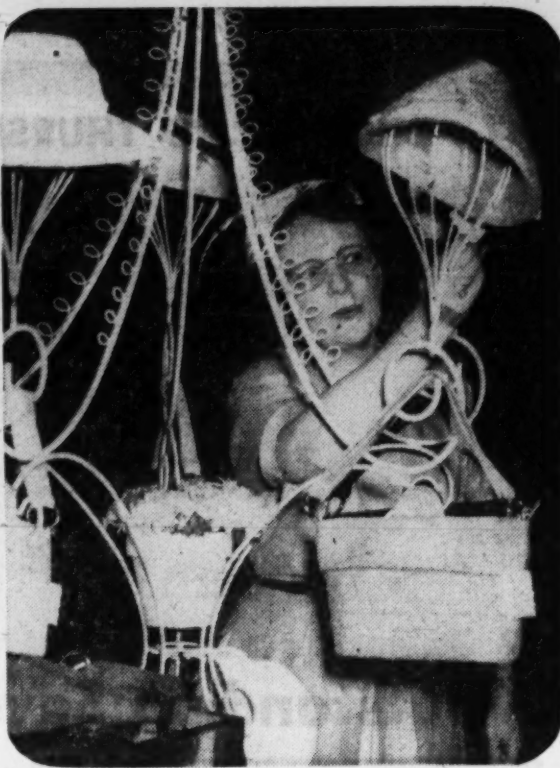

BIBLE-BASED PHILOSOPHY
Quick-smiling Mollie Garland credits a Bible-based philosophy with carrying her through life's threats and thrills.

On the eve of the biggest event in her married life the small, sweet-faced woman said she was proud of her husband, considered him "brave" to enter this year's hot political contest and had left the decision entirely with him.

Mrs. Garland has had practice sharing her husband with public life, as he worked up through city and county offices to a term in the State Legislature in 1947-48 and to the solicitor's post seven years ago. She and her three sons, Bill, 14, Ben Jr., 11, and Byrd, 7, are making plans to go campaigning.

"We'll make Ben's speech making tour our family vacation," the realistic homemaker said.

The family will work picnics and side trips to historic spots into the summer-long stumping tour.

They think this race may be easier than the house-to-house canvassing they did when Ben

Garland was running for solicitor.

GOOD POLITICIAN

Though Mollie Garland won't admit it, neighbors in her native Jackson consider her almost as good a politician as Ben. She has held almost as many civic offices.

In 1950-1951 she held the Jackson PTA helm through a controversial school consolidation program.

She has been president of the Jackson Home Demonstration Club, Eastern Star, Women's Missionary Union and Cherokee Garden Club.

Now she keeps busy supervising the Cradle-Roll Department and leading the story hour of the primary department at the First Baptist Church in her home town.

Admittedly proud of her husband's political accomplishments, soft-spoken Mrs. Garland claims she is "even more proud that he is a fine father."

Baptist Women Plan Annual Linen Shower

About 250 Baptist church women will gather for the 52nd annual linen shower of the Georgia Baptist Hospital Auxiliary at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sheffield Auditorium of the hospital.

Mrs. Lester Brown, White Cross chairman of the Atlanta Association of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union, will preside. Mrs. S. L. Astin, superintendent of the Atlanta Association, BMWU, and Mrs. J. W. Awtry, auxiliary president, will officiate.

Hospital officials who will appear on the program will include Edwin B. Peel, administrator; Miss Dana Hudson, director of nursing; Dr. Walker Jernigan, president of the medical staff, and Dr. E. A. Verdery, hospital chaplain.

Country Hills Club

The Country Hills Garden Club meets Wednesday, June 2, at the home of Mrs. M. L. Corbett on Lake Forest Dr.

Now your skin can lose its dry . . . sensitive . . . flaky look in a SINGLE treatment!

This statement is based on facts. Facts so simple, they speak for themselves:

1. The usual cause of dry, sensitive, flaky skin is skin-vitamin deficiency.
2. Vitamins taken internally—in your diet or other forms—do not necessarily help troubled skin areas.
3. Recent scientific reports have established that vitamins can be absorbed directly through the skin.
4. Marie Earle has perfected a unique penetrating cream which carries right into your skin the vitamins it needs most.
5. Marie Earle retains the full strength of these important vitamins because each day's quota comes in an individual tube which supplies your skin with exactly the right daily ration. There's no loss of strength because of exposure to light—no loss of purity due to opening and closing a jar.
6. Use one tube of Marie Earle Skin Vitamins per day. Look for these changes in your skin:
 - disappearance of flakiness, dry-skin lines and rough patches
 - an almost unbelievable reduction of blemishes and large pores
 - even the most sensitive "thin" skins seem built up, filled out—with a smooth, moist, finished look
 - improvement of skin color—loss of sluggish "grey" look

The cost for 32 Daily Quota Tubes (a full Month's supply) is only $7.50 plus tax. Only $7.50 to discover the beauty of a youthful-looking, moist, supple complexion. Come in tomorrow and find out all about it.

Annie Lou Hardy Mr. and Mrs. Tigner To Visit California

A long-planned trip will become a reality for Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tigner when they leave Saturday by motor for California. They will visit Yosemite, Palm Springs, Carmel, Los Angeles and Santa Barbara en route to San Francisco.

There they will be joined by their niece, Miss Katherine Cook of LaGrange, and by their good friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers of Atlantic Beach, Fla., for a trip to Hawaii. The party will sail June 28 on the Lurline to spend 10 days in Honolulu. The trip is a gift to Miss Cook from Mr. Tigner and another uncle, Frank Tigner, who is mayor of LaGrange.

The Tigners will return to Atlanta Aug. 1. During their absence their Juniper street home will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Johnston.

SAILING FROM NEW YORK on the Empress of Scotland on June 29 are Mr. and Mrs. George T. Northern, bound for a two-month tour of Europe. It will be Mrs. Northern's first crossing of the Atlantic, which holds particular interest since her father's family came originally from Denmark. It will be the 10th crossing for Mr. Northern.

AS SOON AS CLASSES ARE OVER at Randolph-Macon on Friday, Miss Mary Martin Davis will head for Annapolis, Md., to be the guest at the U.S. Naval Academy's June Week of Bob Rodecker of Savannah, Mo. Highlight of June Week is the Ring Dance for juniors on Saturday evening, during which Miss Davis will place his class ring upon Mr. Rodecker's finger in a ceremony signifying his advancement to a full-fledged First Classman.

After June Week, Miss Davis will go to Washington, D.C., to visit her parents, Congressman and Mrs. James C. Davis, and to attend the wedding of a former Decatur girl, Miss Nancy Blakeney of Arlington, Va., who on June 5 will wed James Dewey Thompson at Arlington Presbyterian Church. Then she and her mother will return to their home at Clarkston, where Mr. Davis will join them for the summer.

MISS MARY BOND SMITH of Macon is the guest this week of her cousin, Mrs. W. Schley Howard, at 1403 Ponce de Leon Ave.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR M. TOWNER are in Streator, Ill., for a visit to the former's mother, Mrs. Lillian Towner, who will celebrate her 89th birthday on Saturday. They will be joined there by Mr. Towner's brother, Frank Towner, and his family of Evanston, Ill.

It is a family custom to gather every year at this time in Streator where Mrs. Towner still maintains her home and ranks as one of the city's first citizens.

FRENCH VISITORS at the Emory road residence of Dr. and Mrs. James R. Robinson are the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Claude F. Schaeffer of Paris. Dr. Schaeffer, a member of the French Academie and an Oriental archeologist for the Louvre in Paris, is scheduled for a series of lectures during his visit.

Mrs. Robinson, the former Mariann Schaeffer, met and married Dr. Robinson three years ago while he was studying theology in Paris.

ANOTHER FOREIGN VISITOR is Anthony Voraueur of Vienna, Austria, who has taken an apartment at the Georgian Terrace for two months. Mr. Voraueur has painted portraits of nobles in Europe and America, and many of his canvases hang in galleries on both continents.

BRIDE-ELECT JOYCE HATFIELD will be honor guest at a shower to be given Friday by Mrs. Herbert Fuller, Mrs. M. E. Forrester and Mrs. Charles H. Holt at Mrs. Holt's home at 760 Cumberland Cir., N.E.

Miss Hatfield will become the bride of James E. Coleman at Grace Methodist Church on June 12.

A FAREWELL GESTURE to Mrs. Sydney E. Treadwell, who leaves by plane next week with Mr. Treadwell for a European trip, was the bridge-luncheon given by Mrs. Faye Brossard Miller at the Rose Bowl at Pershing Point.

The Treadwells will visit their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Treadwell in Germany, after which they will tour the continent and England.

HOMEMAKER INVENTS SLIPCOVER DUST MOP
Mrs. Thurman Thompson Cleans Close Places With New Duster

Decatur Homemaker Invents Slipcovered Floor-Wall Mop

A Decatur homemaker, who tired of draping a cloth over a string mop on dusting day, sat down and invented something better. The result worked so well that she went to Washington, D.C., and got a patent.

Now Mrs. Thurman D. Thompson is assembling her new floor-wall duster in her own back yard at 240 Atlanta Ave. All the parts are made in DeKalb County.

Lively Mrs. Thompson, who claims she's been tied to sink, dishpan, orange juice and spinach longer than she can remember, recalls she sewed up sides of dishcloths and slipped them over mops for heavy cleaning through the years.

But the arrangement was awkward and inefficient. So when she hit upon the idea of a dust mop with a changeable cover that could be washed after use, she and her brother, John Kerr, designed a steel frame.

The frame fits inside a chamber cover which is filled with cotton waste. Two pre-shrunk, color-fast, flannel covers come with each dust mop.

The floor-wall duster is especially good at getting into cracks and crannies — on floors, walls, ceilings, window and door ledges. One can reach atop and underneath picture frames, around Eric-a-brac, even use it flat against the ceiling — and all without tottering on a chair, box, and mail order catalog. Even Venetian blinds are readily dustable.

Mrs. Thompson's dust mop has four clean surfaces — the slipcover flap can be used extended out or folded up. Extend 324 square inches out for floors. Flap will reach under doors and piano legs. For walls, fold flap back over pad, giving 162 square inches of dust-chasing flannel.

This new duster is available in Atlanta now, in department, hardware and grocery stores at $3.98. For shopping information, call WA. 5050, Ext. 394.

Georgian Is Delegate To Vienna

By YOLANDE GWIN

A Georgian, Professor Hubert B. Owens of Athens, has been named American delegate to the Congress of the International Federation of Landscape Architects which meets in Vienna, Austria, June 6-18.

Accompanied by his wife, Prof. Owens, who is chairman of the Division of Landscape Architecture at the University of Georgia, is scheduled to land Thursday in England on the first lap of his European jaunt which will climax in mid-August.

TO PRESENT PAPERS

Prof. Owens, selected to represent the U.S.A. by the trustees of the American Society of Landscape Architects, will present a paper at the Congress on "The Role of the Landscape Architect in the U.S.A." The Georgian will present the paper in English, and it will be translated into French and German.

Colored slides, including views of several national parks, city parks in Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W.Va., housing projects in Boston and Los Angeles and several landscape developments in Georgia, will illustrate his talk.

Prof. Owens, as the official American delegate, will serve as a member of the Grand Council of the International Federation of Landscape Architects, which is composed of the official representatives chosen from the professional landscape architectural group from each of the 31 nations which compose the international organization.

SWAP SECRETS

He will swap landscape secrets and gossip with some 250 architects from all over the world. This knowledge will prove of invaluable use and garden club members of Georgia are hoping to reap the benefit of Prof. Owens' participation in the forthcoming congress.

The Georgia couple will wind up their six-day stay at Vienna with a week's tour along with other delegates to landscape and architectural places of interest in Austria. A round of entertainments, both social and official have been planned for the visitors.

Before they return to Athens, Prof. and Mrs. Owens will go to Zurich, Switzerland, to visit friends. The summer will be spent in Italy, Spain and Portugal.

Celestine Sibley Hubbub Over Girl Fridays

A lot of big Atlanta business executives are in an unaccustomed swivet this week. They are making phone calls they never, never would have handled personally before. They are holding the line for other important executives and haggling over reservations at their clubs, dithering over place cards, flower arrangements and menus in a way that would wring your heart if you didn't know that by next week their wives and secretaries will have taken over again.

The reason is this is National Secretary's Week and Atlanta bosses, like their brothers throughout the nation, are knocking themselves out to pay tribute to the second most important women in their lives. (I'm assuming that their wives are the most important, but now that I've said it, I'm not so sure. You can settle the matter of precedence with your own big executive.)

Anyhow, there are a great many parties going on this week for Atlanta secretaries, given by their bosses and their bosses' friends. Luncheons and dinners and cocktail parties are being thrown at a rate quite enough to make the most competent Girl Friday in town lose her list of unlisted telephone numbers. At least one party (given by James Harris of the Atlanta Paper Co.) included both the secretaries and their bosses.

This pleasant hubbub over the girls who probably contribute most to the business and professional success of our leading citizens is long overdue. For years the secretary, usually a plain old maid with an understanding heart and a talent for keeping her mouth shut, had no real stature in the business world. She was invaluable and everybody knew it, but it wasn't considered necessary to tell her so.

Things have changed in recent years. The secretary stands at her boss' right hand when she isn't standing between him and his public—and there's no way of telling how much she smooths the way for his best work or how often she gives him the push and the protection he needs.

The Atlanta chapter of the National Secretaries Association has done much to foster appreciation of the secretary but even more to make her worthy of even greater appreciation. This group, headed at the moment by Mrs. Ruth Key but due to install Miss Elizabeth Mosley as new president Saturday, is supporting the national movement to raise the standards of the profession.

There's a difference, they contend, between a stenographer who can do a decent job of taking a letter and the well-rounded secretary who is an expert in human relations, economics, business law, home nursing (if his Nibs has an ulcer) and the tactful brush-off, as well as typing, shorthand and the old expense account. To make this distinction clear there's the CPA examination and award—CPA in this case meaning Certified Professional Secretary.

The Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia gives the CPA examination each year and local girls are quick to qualify. They like secretarial work as a career, they recognize its importance and they are eager to improve their skills and knowledge. The fact that the job now pays well is not the least of their considerations.

The Atlanta chapter includes highly trained secretaries in such specialized fields as law and medicine, where a more than cursory knowledge of the boss' subject is necessary.

In addition to improving their own standards the secretaries have an eye to the future. No longer do they plan to marry the boss or his son and do themselves out of well-paying, interesting jobs. They are busy founding a resort home for vacationing and retiring secretaries where, when all else fails, they can live happily and comfortably with their own kind.

Your Stars Today

ARIES (March 21 - April 19). This is day when you can get going, but try to avoid doing things which clash with pleasure of those in your home or in business.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20). Keep your thoughts to yourself and be patient for next two days. Little delays in travel or correspondence may irritate; curb temper.

GERMINI (May 21 - June 21). Put aside temptation to spend on impulse as you will probably change your mind or regret it later. Seek out old friends or rest.

CANDER (June 22 - July 22). If you overdo the accent on self today—someone may resent it. Be gracious to meet the general public you meet. Be forgiving.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22). Eat wisely and avoid becoming emotionally involved with fellow workers as there could be some upset in health if you are not careful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Some social contacts may be a little sour if you don't take it easy today. Postpone romantic evening date to more favorable time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Don't push your luck as you may run into some criticism. Avoid friction at home; relationships could be a bit humpy if not careful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21). Watch your step in traveling and your pen if writing, because you could get careless and cause some damage. Keep mentally alert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21). Some friction over money matters can be avoided if you will play it safe. Be practical and take it slow and easy in big deals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Put a guard on yourself today in action and in speech. It is not time to assert your desire to manage things. Slow down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). A secret resentment could mar your activities with everyday associates. Take it easy; avoid overdoing anything. Don't fume.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20). Check impulse to spend. Criticism from friends can be expected if you take chances or overindulge. Be practical.

Nats Bust Lopat Hex, Win in 9th

Pinch Single Counts, 2-1

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Jim Lemon's pinch single with two out in the ninth inning scored Pete Runnels from second base to give Washington a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees tonight. It marked Washington's first win over Ed Lopat since June 26, 1951, the previously undefeated lefthander having defeated the Senators 12 straight times.

Bob Porterfield, who won his sixth successive game and his sixth of the season, restricted the Yankees to seven hits.

Lopat, who had won five in a row, retired the first two batters in the bottom of the ninth, but Runnels popped a single to left and Ed Fitzgerald drilled a single to center. Lemon then batted for Wayne Terwilliger and lined a long hit to left to break up the game. Lemon could have been credited with a double but didn't bother to touch second base.

Sauer Socks No. 13 As Cubs Rip Cards

Dee Fondy Joins in Assault, Adds Homer in 15-5 Rout

ST. LOUIS, May 26 (AP)—Hank Sauer belted his 13th homer and drove in four runs and Dee Fondy collected four hits, one of them a home run, as the Chicago Cubs crushed the St. Louis Cardinals tonight, 15-5.

For the Cubs, whose 50 homers in 36 games lead both major leagues, Ernie Banks and Joe Garagiola hit four-base drives as well as Fondy and Sauer. Hank's wallop, placing him only behind St. Louis' Stan Musial for the league lead, was a tremendous blow that cleared the back wall of the left-field bleachers.

Unbeaten Roy Alvine hurl for Richmond Thursday, and letty Jack Langston, as yet unfired upon in tourney play, will go for Moultrie.

The afternoon Moultrie victory was a heartbreaker for Chub Jenkins' Southwest Wolves after Jimbo Towery had matched Clay Bailey and Freddie Burdette through a 1-1 stalemate for eight innings only to have three walks, one intentional, and F. Burdette's double break the game wide open in the top of the ninth.

Towery had given up only six hits before the ninth and, even though hurling with just one day's rest, struck out eight. He walked six. Bailey, who gave up just three hits, whiffed six and issued two free passes in six full frames before departing the scene when he became ill.

Moye sparked the Packer assault with three hits, including a double, and Sammy Jones patted a triple. Jimmy Curlee bagged two Southwest blows, and shortstop Jimmy Archer handled eight chances without a bobble.

Burdette's Iron Act Extends AA Action

Moultrie Ace Whips Wolves In Relief, Then Richmond

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 26—Freddie Burdette, Moultrie's man with a baseball mission, took complete charge of the 1954 State Class AA high school tournament here Wednesday, pitching and batting the Packers to an extra-inning afternoon victory over Atlanta Southwest, 6-1, and a night triumph over Richmond Academy's defending champions, 2-1.

The heroics of the fabulous Burdette, who won his second and third games in three days of utter perfection, forced the tournament into an extra game, which will be played Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in Jennings Stadium. Mr. Burdette supposedly will be conspicuous by his absence as Coach Knuck McCrory says he will not call on his over-worked ace again.

Burdette took over for an ailing Clay Bailey with the score 1-1 after six innings in the afternoon game. He allowed Southwest one hit but faced the minimum of nine batters in three frames and smashed a two-run double that sent the winning runs scurrying home in a five-run ninth inning.

After three hours of rest, he came back to hand Richmond its first state tourney loss in four years, allowing only two hits, fanning nine and walking just one. His bat spoke just as eloquently. He lashed a triple and tallied the run that produced a 1-1 knot in the fifth inning.

In the bottom of the seventh it was the same story. The 172-pound right-hander bashed another triple in a leadoff role and came home with the winning run on a perfect squeeze bunt by Ray Glow.

Those blows gave Burdette the decision over Herbert Alvine, 14-year-old freshman brother of Richmond pitching ace Roy. Just before was nicked for five hits, including another triple by catcher Gene Snipes. He struck out 11 and walked one.

Unbeaten Roy Alvine will hurl for Richmond Thursday, and letty Jack Langston, as yet unfired upon in tourney play, will go for Moultrie.

The afternoon Moultrie victory was a heartbreaker for Chub Jenkins' Southwest Wolves after Jimbo Towery had matched Clay Bailey and Freddie Burdette through a 1-1 stalemate for eight innings only to have three walks, one intentional, and F. Burdette's double break the game wide open in the top of the ninth.

Martinez Stops Davey In Seventh

CHICAGO, May 26 (AP)—Ex-collegian Chuck Davey again found the Chicago Stadium a school of hard knocks when vicious-punching Vince Martinez floored him four times and won by a technical knockout in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round bout tonight.

Davey, who was stopped cold by Kid Gavilan in his last stadium appearance 15 months ago, was battered so severely in the sixth round by the sixth-ranked Martinez, that the former Michigan State College student was not allowed to come out for the seventh round.

Martinez, Paterson, N. J., weighed 148½ and Davey 149.

In Davey's dressing room, his manager Hec Knowles said the vicious trimming by Martinez eliminated his scheduled bout with Art Aaragon at Los Angeles, June 25.

Knowles said Davey was in "100 per cent good shape" and that "roughly" Chuck may be through boxing. "I'm recommending that Davey quit fighting," Knowles said.

Davey said, however, that he would have to "sleep a couple of nights" on Knowles' announcement. "Give me a break fellows, I can't decide something like this on the spur of the moment," said the 28-year-old lad who holds a teaching degree.

It was the 10th straight victory for Martinez and the 21st knockout of a career that now includes 37 triumphs and only three losses.

McCravey Leads Buckhead March

Lefty McCravey hurled a neat four-hitter and socked a two-run homer in the third to lead his Buckhead Exchange Club nine to a 9-4 Little League victory over Northside Exchange Wednesday. In the other American League game played, Buckhead Rotary beat Buckhead Civitan, 3-1, behind Hank Lesene's five-hitter.

William's Blast Beats Bucs, 2-1

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—Davey Williams, hitting a weak .173, belted one of Vernon Law's pitches into the upper deck of the Polo Grounds today for the decisive run as the New York Giants defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 for their fifth straight triumph.

In contrast to the 22 hits they had last night, the Giants collected only four hits off Law today. The Pirates, however, were kept in check by Ruben Gomez, who chalked up his third victory.

Strafaci Ousted by Toogood Servicemen, Stranahan Win

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 26 (AP)—Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., missed an easy three-foot putt on the 25th green today to lose a heart-breaking overtime match in the fourth round of the British Amateur golf tournament.

The defeat of the New Yorker at the hands of Australia's young Peter Toogood after a spectacular comeback overshadowed the advance of five Americans—the two prime U.S. favorites, Frank Stranahan and Bill Campbell, and a trio of U.S. servicemen.

The surviving servicemen were Harold Ridgley, a 40-year-old master sergeant from Havertown, Pa.; Dick Davis, the 23-year-old golfing sailor from Annandale, Calif., and Maj. W. D. Henderson of San Francisco, who registered from a London Club.

Fans even deserted their own champion, Irish Joe Carr, to watch the marathon battle between Strafaci and Toogood that carried seven holes and almost two hours beyond schedule. Carr kept pace with the favorites.

At the end of the day's wearying double round of eliminations, the field had been reduced to 32 and eight Americans had been sent to the sidelines—four in the third round and as many in the fourth. Stranahan, the winner in 1948 and 1950 and co-favorite with Carr, played steady golf to trounce Dr. R. J. Henderson of England 4 and 3.

NEW MOON ECLIPSES MEMORY OF ENOS WITH BASE THEFTS

ST. LOUIS, May 26 (AP)—Wally Moon is doing his best to make St. Louis Cardinal fans forget Enos Slaughter.

Moon, the rookie who replaced Slaughter when the old warhorse was traded to the New York Yankees, ran wild last night in helping the Cards to a 9-4 verdict over the Chicago Cubs.

The rookie's four stolen bases—he stole second base in the first, fourth and fifth innings, and stole third in the fifth—fell just one shy of a 50-year-old so-called modern record of the National League. "I'll take another crack at it one of these days," Moon said after the game.

Moon would have had a chance to equal the record if he had reached base instead of flying out in the seventh inning.

"I would have given Moon every chance to get that fifth steal," said Manager Eddie Stanky. "He's a nifty youngster and when he says he'll have another go at it, I'm sure he will."

In giving Cubs catcher Walker one of his worst times in the veteran catcher's 15-year career, Moon scored on a wild pitch in the fifth.

Moon also had two hits in four trips to boost his average to .336.

WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY NARROWS TO FOUR HOPEFULS FOR SEMIFINAL ACTION FRIDAY
(L-R) Madge McDonald, Dot Clay, Janice Phelps and Thelma Martin Aim At Championship Shot

McDonald Making Bid for 3rd Crown

Faces Clay in Semifinals;
Phelps, Martin Square Off

By BERT PRATHER

Mrs. Grady McDonald, who is seeking her third Women's City golf championship, and three-time City junior girls' champ Janice Phelps, who is making her first serious bid for the "big" crown, led the way into the semifinals of the 33rd championship Wednesday afternoon at Capital City Country Club.

Mrs. McDonald, whose medal-winning 76 is the lowest round of the tournament thus far, reached the round of four with a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. D. N. McKinley of Ansley Golf Club. The tournament favorite from Ansley played out the round to post a 39-39-78.

Miss Phelps, a member of the Roosevelt High boys' golf team the past season, breezed by Capital City clubmate Carol Thomas, 4 and 3, and also finished out the round to register a 39-39-78.

Mrs. Larry Martin of East Lake moved into the bracket opposite Miss Phelps with a 4 and 2 triumph over blonde Mrs. J. T. Fulwiler of the host club to set up what promises to be Thursday's feature scrap.

The other semi-finalist is pretty Dot Clay, wife of Capital City's Jim Clay, one of the city's better amateurs. Mrs. Clay rallied from one down at the turn to oust former East Lake champion Mrs. Harold Denson, 2 and 1. This match was rated a mild upset. The winner shot a 38 on the final nine, best of the day.

Mrs. McDonald, who has been twice runner-up and medalist four times in addition to her two victories, wheeled into a 3-up lead.

Second-round results: HAMILTON FLIGHT—Mrs. Grady McDonald beat Mrs. D. N. McKinley, 4 and 3; Mrs. Jim Clay beat Mrs. Carol Thomas, 4 and 3; Mrs. Larry Martin beat Mrs. J. T. Fulwiler, 4 and 2; CONSOLE FLIGHT—Mrs. H. H. Hall beat Mrs. E. Westminster Monopolizes Net Finals

Westminster boys made a clean sweep of quarterfinal play at the Piedmont Park tennis courts Wednesday afternoon, making it imperative that they would keep the championship of the Atlanta Lawn Tennis Association in the "family" at any rate.

Pitted in the semifinals, Thursday are Alfred Thompson and Harry Thompson and Ned Neely meets Stevie Stephenson.

Competition on the staff side of the tournament finds Beverly Ferris (Northside) matched with Margaret Powell (Westminster) and Carolyn Lynch (Murphy) meeting Sue Baker (West Fulton) in the semifinals.

Ex-Batting Champ

ELMIRA, N. Y.—Tommy Holmes, manager of Elmira, N. Y., in the Eastern League, is well-remembered by fans in that loop. He was the batting champ with Binghamton in 1938. His average was .368.

Alfred Thompson, Westminster, beat Chuck Tuller, Westminster, 13-11, 6-3; Harry Thompson, Westminster, beat Bill Cose, Bannockburn, 6-3, 6-1; Ned Neely, Westminster, beat Don Hankinson, Sylvan, 6-0, 6-1; Stevie Stephenson, Westminster, beat Mike Newb, Westminster, 6-0, 6-0.

Beverly Ferris, Northside, beat Gail Tansil, Northside, 6-2, 6-1; Margaret Powell, Westminster, beat Janice Garrard, Westminster; Carolyn Lynch, beat Virginia Scott, Grady, 6-2, 6-0; Sue Baker, West Fulton, beat Susie Walker, Northside, 6-2, 6-0.

Durables Boost List to New High

Steel Optimism, Talks At Geneva Called Causes

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—Strong demand for steels, motors and aircraft today sent the stock market swinging away to new high marks.

Trading started slowly with prices higher. Aircraft were well out in front and then the steels joined the forward procession.

Late in the day, the motors strengthened and other major divisions of the market displayed better prices.

Bethlehem Steel shot ahead 3 1/2 at 71 under what brokers described as heavy demand from institutions and other investors. Steels as a whole got the benefit of rather optimistic forecasts on steel business the rest of this year at the annual meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute.

Some brokers said that fears over the outcome of the Geneva Conference also had a hand in the demand for stocks that usually are associated with defense.

Gains went from 1 to 3 points in many instances with a few running past that level. Losses were small.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 70 cents at $125.50. At that level, the average is equal to the highest point reached in 1930. On April 10, 1930, the average stood at $125.50.

If the stock market carries the average any higher, it must then be compared with levels that existed in October of 1929. During that period, the stock market was in a turmoil that brought panic in its wake.

Business accelerated during periods of rapidly rising prices and came to 2,180,000 shares, the eighth straight time that the two million mark has been passed. Yesterday's total was 2,050,000 shares.

Tariff Law Delay Blow Is Lessened Increases in European Production Ease Effects

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The administration decision to drop its over-all tariff revision program for this session of Congress has less effect on America's international relations now than it would have had only a few months ago.

Business in Brief

Sandy Strickland, who represents the Write Right Manufacturing Co. of Atlanta in Virginia and North Carolina, has been awarded an expense paid week's vacation trip to Miami Beach as first prize in a recent sales contest conducted by the company. A native Atlantan and a graduate of Georgia Tech, Strickland has been with the company a year and a half.

VERLANDER APPOINTED

Clyde Verlander has been appointed Atlanta branch manager for Dan River Mills of New York City. In this territory he will serve customers in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee and Mississippi.

WOOLSEY ELECTED

Chester D. Woolsey, local State Farm Insurance agent, was recently elected president of the 1954 class while attending the Institute of Insurance Marketing at Southern Methodist University. He holds degrees from Emory University and Auburn.

Hogs, Cattle Slip a Little

Georgia hog prices turned downward Wednesday, influenced by sharp declines at Chicago and other Midwest points. Prices declined 25 cents a hundred pounds at Atlanta packing plants, the first change since May 13. Price drops of mostly 50 cents were reported at major packing plants in the Georgia-Florida-Alabama peanut belt.

Reduced arrivals at north Georgia cattle auctions Tuesday afternoon brought fairly active trading. However, prices ranged steadily to as much as 50 cents lower for some classes. Wednesday's auctions were not reported.

Mrs. Howard McCall Sr., DAR, UDC Leader, Dies

Mrs. Howard H. McCall Sr., 83, prominent Atlantian and honorary national vice president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died Wednesday night in a private hospital after a five-month illness.

Mrs. McCall, whose late husband founded and was president of the Paragon Box Co. here, was elected to the DAR office for life at the organization's 57th congress in Washington, D.C., in 1948.

A former state regent for Georgia, she had missed only two DAR congresses during the 40 years prior to the 57th. During 1922-25 she served as DAR vice president general.

HONORED BY UDC

Mrs. McCall was honorary state president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, parliamentarian of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and a life trustee of both the Tallahassee and Rabun Gap-Nacoochee schools.

She was a member of the Atlanta chapters of the UDC, DAR, Daughters of American Colonists, Daughters of 1812, Society of Founders and Patriots of America, and a member of the National Society of Daughters of the Baron of Runnymede.

Recognized nationally for her genealogical researches, Mrs. McCall had authored several books, outstanding among which is the "McCall-Tidwell and Allied Families."

ACTIVE IN CHURCH

She was a charter member of the Ponce de Leon Baptist Church and had continued an active interest in church affairs since its merger with the Second Baptist Church. A lifelong resident of Atlanta, she lived in the St. Andrews Apartments at 1041 W. Peachtree St. N.E.

Her survivors include a son, Howard H. McCall Jr., president of the Paragon Box Co., Atlanta; two sisters, Miss Lillian R. Tidwell and Mrs. George S. Obeare.

Jr., Atlanta; a sister-in-law, Mrs. William D. Tidwell, Denver, Col.; a brother, Charles R. Tidwell, Orlando; a grandson, Howard H. McCall III, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Elsa McCall Adair, both of Atlanta; five great-grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

W. Frank Luckiesh Dies; Executive, Fraternal Leader

Should Churches Indulge in Gambling?

Nancy L., 17, is editor of her high school newspaper in an Ohio city where I recently spoke. "Dr. Crane, is gambling wrong?" she asked me. "The reason I inquire is because my church opposes gambling. "But many other churches encourage it and use bingo and lotteries and raffles as a means of trying to get enough money to pay the clergymen. "If our state legislatures veto gambling in all other spots except the churches, how can the churches defend the use of raffles and bingo?"

GAMBLING SOPHISTRY

Last fall the two New Jersey candidates for governor tried to outdo each other by promising churches entire immunity from the New Jersey state laws against gambling.

Each candidate claimed he would grant churches full exemption from the law against raffles, lotteries, bingo, etc. But the other clubs and organizations and taverns would meanwhile be subject to fines if they indulged in any of those things.

Is gambling moral and right if performed in churches, but very immoral if permitted in ice cream parlors or night clubs? What would Jesus say if he were to visit a church where roulette wheels of bingo or raffles were in full force to entice people to contribute money?

What did Jesus do when he entered the ancient Hebrew Temple and found the money changers running a somewhat similar "gyp" racket on the worshippers?

The Bible says he drove the money changers out of the Temple and even upturned their tables. For, said Christ, "My house shall be a house of prayer and ye have made it a den of thieves."

JUDY'S ATTITUDE

Our daughter Judy attended a church gambling party here in Chicago while she was a senior in high school, for her boy friend wanted her to go with him.

Among other gambling devices in full swing was a mechanical game which operated as a horse race. The parishioners were to lay their bets on any one of five or six ponies.

After all the money was down, the cleric would tamper with the machine so the winner would be the horse on which the fewest bets had been made.

The church took in over $2,000 that night on this one item, for Judy was asked to help tally the money and wrap it in packages for deposit.

And that horse racing gadget was just one of many other gambling devices.

Moreover, when Judy and her boy friend went to the refreshment booth, the clergyman offered them beer, which was the only beverage for teen-agers and adults.

"Daddy, how could a church stoop so low as to engage in gambling?" Judy expostulated in shocked surprise when she returned home.

"If the church doesn't set a better example of morality than the race tracks, what does it have to offer?"

What do you readers think of Judy's terse indictment? I'm leaving the decision up to you.

The bidding: South 1 spade, West 2 hearts, East 3 hearts, South 4 hearts, West 4 spades, East 5 spades, South 6 spades.

Opening lead: King of hearts. Team of four contests at match play, where each deal constitutes a separate match, produce at times some strange and exotic bids. The sacrifice bid is employed much more freely in this type of game, as witness today's offering culled from a recent match at Miami Beach, Fla.

At each table, South, not vulnerable, chose to open the bidding against his vulnerable opponents and West, of course, overcalled with two hearts. North, a state which it would have been better for him to maintain on the next round, East leaped directly to four hearts.

For opposite a vulnerable overall at the level of two, three small trumps constitute adequate support in view of the general strength of the hand. South and West passed, and North, convinced that the opponents would score 620 for their vulnerable game, decided to save at four spades in the hope that the losses would be held to 500 points.

Though how North expected his partner to bring in seven tricks with this near Yarborough, this department cannot comprehend. The odds are that two players on opposing teams should have adopted similar attitudes on this hand.

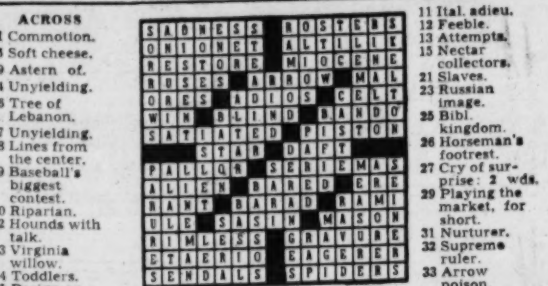

Strangely, though, the match was decided on the defense, which on the surface might appear to be open and shut.

West opened the king of hearts and East played the deuce. West shifted to the seven of clubs and East won with the queen as South dropped the ten. From East's standpoint, West's lead may have been from the 7-6 of clubs; so he was reluctant to cash out at this point. He returned the eight of hearts to West's ace. At this point West came up with a neatly planned defensive play. There was not the slightest doubt in his mind that East held the ace of diamonds, for having jumped to four hearts with only three small trumps he surely had something more than just the ace-king-queen of clubs.

True, he could put East in with the ace of diamonds to have partner cash his top clubs and then try for an overruff, but declarer might discard a losing diamond on the fourth club. So, considered, West made the dramatic play of the king of diamonds, then a diamond to the ace. East cashed the king and ace of clubs and led the fourth round. West could not now be prevented from scoring with his jack of spades. The score of 900 points was sufficient to win the

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VANDELLEN

Albumin Not Always Sign of Kidney Disease

Albumin in the urine is a normal reaction to stress and not necessarily a sign of kidney disease.

Many individuals are upset when urinalysis discloses the presence of albumin. It is well to remember that one swallow does not make a summer nor does a single positive test imply kidney trouble.

It is advisable to have the test repeated because there is a 35 per cent chance that the next specimen will be normal. There always is a possibility that the technician made a mistake or that albumin is temporary. The situation is different when large amounts are present, particularly after several specimens are consistent along this line.

It may be a sign of Bright's disease, a congenital defect, or renal infection; or it may indicate ordinary inflammation of kidney, bladder, or the tube connecting these structures (ureters).

In such instances pus cells, casts, or red blood corpuscles may coexist. In these conditions the outlook is good because many treatments are available and when inflammation subsides albumin disappears.

If the second test is positive, there still is a possibility that the condition may not be serious. Should this occur, the physician asks for a specimen that is obtained on arising in the morning and another after being up and about for an hour or two.

This is done because posture is a factor; albumin may be present after standing but not after resting. The cause is mechanical and is due principally to the effects of gravity on the filtration power of the kidneys.

No one knows why emotional tension has the same effect upon the kidneys as does vigorous exercise. The organs may be influenced by the nervous system which affects the filtering mechanism and allows small amounts of albumin to escape.

RADIO REVIEW

HOPE

WOMAN OF THE WEEK on Bob Hope's day-time show tomorrow morning at 10:30 on WSB Radio, will be the founder of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society—Miss Silvia Lawry. Each Friday, Bob climaxes a week of morning frolicking and interviewing with his Woman of the Week award—and this time his lady has a remarkable record which he'll reveal during the show. Seems Miss Lawry inserted one little ad in the Classified Section of a New York newspaper—and drew sufficient support from it to establish the Society which now has 35,000 members. Miss Lawry is its executive secretary.

FAST ON HIS FEET is the description that fits Frank Bourgholtzer, NBC's chief Paris correspondent whom you hear often on the 8 a.m. World News Roundup on WSB Radio. Though he is not yet 35 years old, Frank has been continent-hopping for years, gathering the headlines and features which help to make NBC news programs tops in their line.

Just to give you an idea of the speed with which Frank has to get around . . . during the recent Geneva conference, he left the Swiss city on a Friday, got to New York Saturday and gave a network report on progress of the talks on Sunday, and on Monday did a little shopping for his wife and four-year-old son before taking off again for Geneva! Among the big events Bourgholtzer has covered are the Coronation in London, the uprising of East German workers against Soviet occupation policies in 1953, the anti-French disturbances in Morocco, and President-elect Eisenhower's famous trip to Korea before the Inauguration. Frank says he likes to travel which strikes us as extremely lucky under all the circumstances.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM FARE on the Voice of the South offers adventure both in western style and with the salty flavor of the sea. Western comes first, with the King of the Cowboys and his wife, Dale Evans, getting assists from Roy's horse, Trigger, and the dog, Bullet. That's at 8 and is followed at 8:30 by SIX SHOOTER with Jimmy Stewart as Britt Ponsett, slinging a tough gun in the interests of law and order. At 9 comes the salty portion with Jason and his vessel Golden Fleece. For the more serious-minded, the schedule calls for FACTS FORUM at 7:15, with Commentator Dan Smoot bringing you a two-sided discussion of one of the nation's vital economic problems. You'll always find the best on the Voice of the South.

400 Called In Garland Libel Case

FORSYTH, May 26 (AP)—More than 400 persons have been subpoenaed to appear in Monroe Superior Court before Judge Thomas Brown Tuesday for a hearing on Benjamin B. Garland's request for a change of venue in his forthcoming trial on charges of criminal libel.

The subpoenas went to every person on the Monroe County petit jury list.

A former request by Garland who qualified Tuesday as a candidate for the governor's office, for a change of venue was denied by Judge Brown in February.

Garland, former solicitor general of the Flint Circuit, was indicted by a Monroe Grand Jury as an outgrowth of the case of William Ogletree, Negro, whose death sentence for slaying a white man was commuted by the State Pardon and Parole Board.

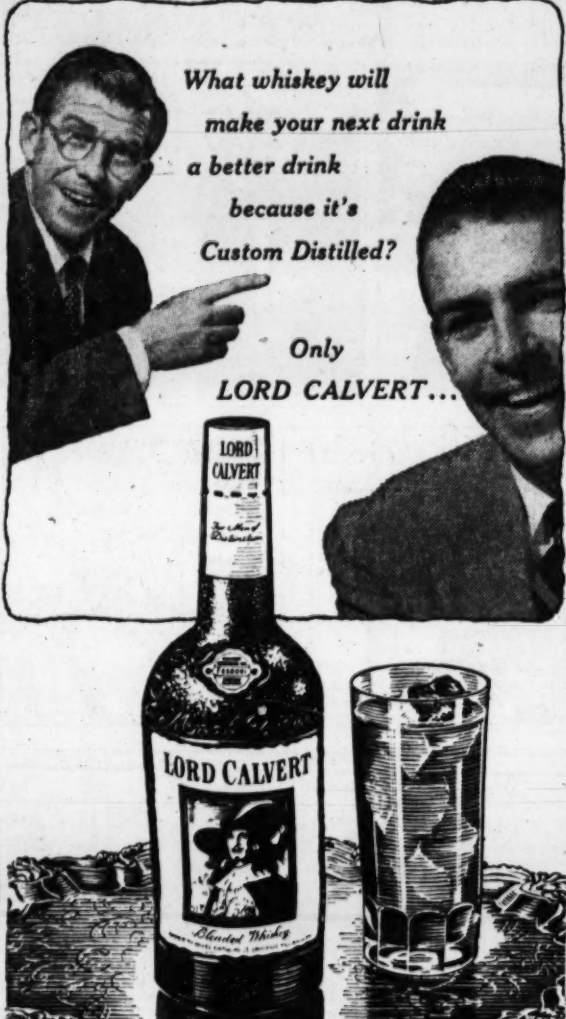

Following a plea by Garland, one of two counts in one of the indictments was recently dismissed by Judge Brown but the judge refused to dismiss the others.

The indictments as they now stand charge that Garland defamed the trial jury in the Ogletree case and libeled former Judge Frank B. Willingham.

It was originally reported that Garland's trial would begin here Thursday but courthouse officials said today only the change of venue hearings will be held at that time.
